Governor Goes to Scene

MASONRY HAD BEEN

Path of Flood Discussed Possibilities of Disaster,

By the Associated Press.
NEW HALL, Cal., March 14.—
With the present death list placed at 251, steam shovels groped about in the debris of the San Francisco canyon today in search of additional bodies of victims except to probable omissions, duplications
at rescuing stations and broken communication lines.
The totals on bodies recovered,
posted here, follow: Oxnard 4,
Ventura 3, Fillmore 47, Newhall 46,
Piru 51, Santa Paula 26, Salton 5, Moorpark 40. The figures given for Piru were unofficial and were felt to be too high, but it was possible to get into communication with that town, which is isolated by mud and water.
There were estimates that the death list might reach upward of 400. The jagged central section of the dam, standing gaunt by itself today, was believed to shadow
the grave of 50 Los Angeles city employees, overwhelmed and buried
as they slept in their construction camp.
Bodies in Makeshift Morgues.
In lodge rooms, pool halls, dance halls and wherever floor space could be obtained at various centers throughout the flood region,
morgues have been established.
Rough boards, mounted on chairs, benches or anything available are the resting places of the dead.
With the same courage that impelled them to reclaim the desert in the first place, survivors of the catastrophe took up again the task of searching for and identifying the bodies of those who were lost.
Here and there throughout the waste left by the waters are sticks stuck into the mud to indicate a marker for the searching parties set up by the advance guard of the hunt.
No estimate that is nearly accurate can be made yet of the property damage. Some have fixed the figure as low as $7,000,000 and others as high as $20,000,000.
Investigations Started.
Parallel with the search for victims of the tragedy marches an official investigation of its problems.
Why a dam, barely two years old, and built at a cost of more than $1,000,000, should crumble under the pressure of the water it was constructed to impound, is the question to which officials of the State, counties and cities are seeking an answer.
Seepage, say many residents of the valley, started the erosion which culminated in catastrophe.
Builders of the dam, who reared the bulk under supervision of Chief Engineer William Mulholland of the Los Angeles Bureau of Water and Power, declare it showed a minimum of seepage.
Mulholland said last night that he believed an earth movement was responsible.
Bitterness mingled with grief in discussions of the disaster throughout the Little Santa Clara valley, down which the flood poured yesterday from the mouth of San Francisco canyon. On every hill in that region, survivors recalled the sight the valley resembled made against the hilling of the dam by the city of Los Angeles.
Ventura County Plans Inquiry.
Sheriff Clark of Ventura County, who has temporary headquarters at Santa Paula, announced that he would confer today with the District Attorney of Ventura County with the object of sending that county's engineers to make a thorough investigation of the causes of the disaster.
Relief agencies are operating actively all over the affected area.
The Red Cross, county and local organizations have stations erected at all strategic points, and food, clothing and medical assistance are ready for all who apply.

By the Associated Press.
MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 14.—Uncertainty regarding the next step prevailed in Nicaragua today because of the defeat by the House of the McCoy bill to authorize United States supervision of the presidential election next October.
After the defeat, Brigadier-General Frank C. McCoy, who was named to supervise the election, said he would consult President Diaz as to the next step in carrying out the Stimson agreement. The agreement provided that the Liberals in the recent revolt against the Conservative government should lay down their arms and that the United States would insure a fair election.
Whether President Diaz would call a special session of Congress to consider another bill, slightly modified to meet demands expressed by the opposition, was not known.
The Senate passed a bill which was regarded as carrying out the terms of the United States agreement, but the House amended it in such a manner that it was regarded as taking the teeth out of the measure. Certain changes were made in the original measure at the request of the Nicaraguans and then endorsed by the State Department at Washington and the bill was submitted in this form.
Heavily armed guards offered by United States marines were stationed around the National Palace, where Congress was in session. They were placed there to prevent any demonstration by Liberals in favor of the measure, and there was no disorder.
The amendments were first defeated and then the bill. The vote on the measure was 22 to 16.
Some of the Conservatives who had promised to support it changed their minds before voting. This was a distinct surprise since President Diaz, a Conservative, earlier in the day had issued a statement that it would be passed.

GEORGE EASTMAN AND PARTY ESCAPE FIRE ON A TRAIN

Camera Manufacturer and Films of Their African

BLAZE STARTS IN SLEEPING COACH

After Accident on Railway in Egypt Passengers Go to Alexandria to Catch Steamer.

By the Associated Press.
CAIRO, March 14.—George Eastman, camera manufacturer of Rochester, N. Y., and the Eastman hunting party on the way home from the wilds of Africa, were among the passengers of a crowded train who narrowly escaped when fire destroyed two coaches. All the films which Eastman had made on his trip were destroyed. Eastman himself escaped in his pajamas and members of his party lost everything.
On his arrival in Cairo Eastman was wearing a cap, a coat and trousers, which apparently had been borrowed, and slippers. All departed by special train for Alexandria to catch the White Star liner Doric.

Most of the passengers on the train were American tourists. The train was crowded, and temporary coaches were placed in an ordinary first-class carriage. It was here that the fire originated. It spread rapidly to the adjoining sleeper in which the Eastman party was traveling. The engineer stopped the train and the passengers escaped through the windows in their sleeping garments.
The train was on a steep embankment and the passengers bunched one another through the windows. Cut hands, barked shins, sprained ankles and bruises were the only mishaps recorded.
So rapid was the spread of the flames that there was no time to save anything. Baggage and valuables were abandoned, and everything in the two coaches was destroyed.

The Eastman films burned included those of wild animal life which he had taken in Central Africa. They represented a serious loss since the primary purpose of the expedition was photographing. A number of valuable photographs also were burned.
Charles Prescott, British artist, who had been accommodated in the first-class coach, told the correspondent that he was awakened by smoke, opened his door and found flames raging outside. He said that he had some fearful moments in trying to pull down his window shutter and finally moved through the window in his pajamas.
Eastman, who refused to talk of his experiences, was escorted from the station and was driven to the Soramamis Hotel. It was a strange sight to see the daughter of the millionaire to walk from the station and drive through the streets of Cairo clad only in a pajama coat and serge trousers.

Some of the women passengers concealed the splendor of their other garments under big cloaks.

SEVERAL PERSONS REPORTED

By the Associated Press.
SCHOHARIE, N. Y., March 14.—Several persons are reported to have been seriously injured when a bridge over Schlar Creek, in the southern section of this village, collapsed this afternoon. Between 25 and 30 persons are believed to have been on the bridge at the time it gave away.
Earlier in the day a heavily laden motor truck had crashed through the planking and had hung suspended by the girders over the stream. A crowd assembled to watch the work of extricating the truck and the weight of the assemblage caused the structure to buckle and fall into the creek.

TRANS-ATLANTIC FLYER OUT 37 HOURS, UNREPORTED

WOMAN THOUGHT TO BE ON FLIGHT HAS WILL OF OWN

Family of the Hon. Elsie Mackay Has No Definite News, but Thinks She Is Aboard Plane.

PRESS SAYS SHE IS WITH HINCHLIFFE.

Reports She Was Seen in Flying Costume at Field
Where Endeavour
Hopped Off.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, March 14.—Any doubt as to the Hon. Elsie Mackay being Capt. Hinchliffe's companion in his trans-Atlantic flight seems to have been removed by circumstantial statements of those in a position to know her movements to that effect, say the London Daily Mail and Express this morning.

The Mail cites an unnamed close relative of the family as saying that after he had received a statement from servants of her father, Lord Inchcape, that Miss Mackay, who is 35 years old, left early yesterday in a motor car and had not since returned, he inquired further and discovered her departure actually had been Monday night.

He is convinced she is now in the airplane with Hinchliffe.
The Daily Express printed a photograph showing Capt. Hinchliffe and Miss Mackay standing beside the plane, which the paper said was taken prior to the hop-off yesterday morning at 4:40 a. m. (2:40 Eastern Standard time).
Reported Dressed as Mechanic.

Miss Mackay, dressed as a mechanic, entered the plane "Endeavour" before the hop-off. It was said, and was at first thought to be the Sinclair.

Miss Mackay's relatives were declared to be anxious regarding such attempts, in view of the fatal result of previous efforts to span the North Atlantic.

The Mail says Miss Mackay stayed at a hotel at Grantham Monday night with two women. Hinchliffe and Gordon Sinclair, an army reserve pilot, also were there. All of them leaving together at 5:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

The Express quotes the hotel clerk as saying Miss Mackay was wearing a flying costume, and was wearing a cap, and compressed rations and some fruit with them, he said.

Family Convinced She Is on Plane.
All night Lord Inchcape's household remained waiting for some message from the Atlantic, for while they had no definite information that the daughter of their house, was aboard the plane, they were convinced she was essaying this feat, which has cost so many lives, in the hope of being the first woman to fly the Atlantic.

Lord Inchcape, who is in Egypt, has not been directly informed of the situation, for it is understood he was determinedly opposed to his daughter's wish to undertake the flight and this appeared to account for much of the mystery surrounding yesterday's start.

Mrs. Hinchliffe, wife of the intrepid British pilot, today sat near a telephone with her baby daughter in her arms patiently listening for a ring of the bell which might announce news of her husband. She was bravely confident. Only the tone of her eager voice betrayed the strain under which she was laboring.

Mrs. Sinclair spent the night with Mrs. Hinchliffe and the latter said Mrs. Sinclair had not received any word either. Consequently Sinclair's whereabouts also was a mystery.
Miss Mackay got an American visa some weeks ago. Hinchliffe already had a visa.

MISSION GROUP URGES REMOVAL FROM CITY

Committee Favors Accepting Offer of Free Offices
At Indianapolis.

The Executive Committee of the United Christian Missionary Society today voted to recommend to the Board of Managers of the organization that the national headquarters be removed from St. Louis to Indianapolis, Ind. The recommendation will be considered at a national convention beginning April 17 at Columbus, O.

Action of the committee today resulted from an offer made last month by a division of the society in Indianapolis to furnish housing facilities without charge. The annual rental for quarters in St. Louis, which are at 425 E. Ball-venue, amounts to $16,500.

"There were three reasons for recommending the change," said P. W. Burnham, president of the society. "One was the chance to decrease expense by abolition of rent; another was that we were unable to get satisfactory quarters in St. Louis; and third, a religious organization of our type is not allowed to incorporate in Missouri."

The society headquarters have been in St. Louis since 1926. It has an annual payroll of $200,000 and receipts amounting to $3,000,000. The society employs approximately 125 persons and its removal would result in many families going to Indianapolis to make their homes.

The Indianapolis building was erected by the Disciples of Christ in 1909 for housing the College of Missions, which has suspended. Title to the building is in the name of the Christian Board of Missions, one of the co-operating boards of the United Christian Missionary Society. If the removal is effected the rental fee will be $1 a year. The move from here was opposed by the local Church Federation, Chamber of Commerce and business institutions.

LINDBERGH IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived in Washington at 11:50 a. m. today, having flown from Coatesville, Pa. His arrival also was announced by the War Department, but nothing was known there of the purpose of the visit.
Col. Lindbergh was forced down on a farm near Coatesville by fog yesterday on a flight from New York to Washington, with his counsel, Henry Breckinridge.

Steamers on Route "En-

By the Associated Press.
ST. JOHN'S, N. F., March 14.—Unconfirmed reports were received today that several residents of Britus had heard the drone of an airplane between 6 and 7 o'clock this morning.

Brigus is a town of about 2000 population, at the head of Conception Bay, in Southeastern Newfoundland, about 25 miles north-west of St. John's and a short distance south of Harbor Grace.

NEW YORK, March 14.—The America-should monoplane, "Endeavour," was long overdue on its flight from England today and grave anxiety was felt for its occupants.

At 4:40 o'clock this afternoon the plane had been 37 hours away from Cranwell, its starting point, and it had not reached its destination. At normal consumption, its gasoline would be all gone at 7 o'clock tonight. It had been expected to arrive over Newfoundland at dawn.

The one hope felt for the flyers tonight was that they had landed either near a ship equipped with wireless or somewhere on land where communication with the outside world is slow.

The "Endeavour," piloted by Capt. Walter Hinchliffe, British ace, took off in England at 4:40 a. m. Eastern standard time yesterday. Hinchliffe's companion was believed to be the Hon. Elsie Mackay, daughter of Lord Inchcape and sponsor of the expedition.

Plane Should Have Landed.
If the plane's cruising speed of 105 miles an hour had been maintained the "Endeavour" would have arrived at Newfoundland between 4 and 6 this morning and at New York, if it had been decided to stop there, between 5 and 6 this afternoon. But in weather conditions held the speed down to 80 miles which is about as low as it could operate efficiently, the flyers would not have sighted Newfoundland until 9 a. m.

Fog was reported between Newfoundland and New York and was believed possible the flyers might be made without anyone being able to sight the plane.

Field were ordered kept burning all night and 50 soldiers were assigned to remain under arms to police the airport.

Reported Off Irish Coast.
Since the "Endeavour" took off at 4:40 a. m. Eastern standard time yesterday, no positive word of its whereabouts has been received. In Ireland a plane was seen flying westward, but it was not definitely identified as Hinchliffe's. Off the Irish coast a steamer saw a plane but it was not identified.

Passers perceived along the gross circle course reported they saw nothing of the plane, scheduled to fly above them, and one ship told of a gale it was encountering.
The "Endeavour" has a black fuselage, golden wings and struts, and on the underside of the fuselage is painted the name. On either side is painted a Union Jack with the letter C. On the rudder is the number X41511.
Not Seen by Steamer.
The commander of the Hamburg-American liner Deutschland reported in a wireless message to the Associated Press at 7 a. m. Eastern time today, that he had seen no sign of the plane. The vessel is due today in mid-Atlantic found very little good, with a light wind from the north-northwest.

Man Swam Mile in Torrent

Watchman Drowned.

By the Associated Press.
NEW HALL, Cal., March 14.—
An old feather mattress saved
the lives of Mrs. Sisto Luna and her three children when their home on the outskirts of Santa Paula collapsed with the first rush of water from the broken St. Francis dam.

With her children, the youngest less than a month old, Mrs. Luna clung to the mattress and was swept down stream more than two miles, until stopped by the top of a tree sticking up through the flood.

William Spring, a neighbor of the Lunas, swam a mile to safety with his 6-month-old child clinging to his neck. Mrs. Spring hung to the branches of an orange tree until rescued by workers from Santa Paula.

Chester Johnson, Louis Hepkin and Jack Polper were asleep in their cabin in San Francisco Canyon when they were awakened by their house tossing and tumbling about.

Climb Canyon Wall to Safety.
"One wall of the cabin was torn away and we leaped into the swirling stream, trying to fight our way across the short space to the canyon wall," Johnson said. "The first burst of the flood had passed,
but a short distance up the canyon, roaring and tearing along with a terrific noise we could see a wall of water about 75 feet high bearing down upon us."

"We fought at shrubs and twigs and clung to the canyon side until the rising tide licking our feet. We were barely out of the reach when the water wall passed."

Ben Dornache was in a ranch house below the dam, with his sister and her husband. All three were thrown from the house into the flood. Dornache, who is a strong swimmer, helped the other two, but his brother-in-law was swept away, while Dornache and his sister reached safely on the canyon side.

Heroic Watchman Killed.
E. Locke, night watchman at the Southern California Edison Co.
camp in the canyon, refused to attempt his own escape until he had notified his fellow workers. He paid with his life for his heroism.
According to the workmen refugees, the night watchman ran from cabin to cabin and from tent to tent in the confusion, warning the workers to flee for their lives.

C. B. Wheeler, superintendent of construction for the company, today said loss of life at the camp probably would prove to be less than at first appeared.
"We have definitely located at least 100 of our men," Wheeler said. "The superintendent at the camp reports that he had a small force that at first believed and he estimates that the loss of life will not be more than 30 or 35 men. Many of the workers were laid off Saturday and some left camp. The total in the camp was less than 150, we believe. From all accounts the boys heard the flood coming and ran up the steep mountain sides for safety."

Previous estimates of the loss of life in the power camps ran as high as 140.
Mrs. Anna Holmloch seized her baby as the water crashed her home, but a swirling billow tore the infant from her grasp and it was swept to death. An older child already had been carried away.
C. H. Hunick, 30 years old, sleeping in his home a mile and a half below the dam, felt the walls shattered about him and found himself struggling in the torrent. He caught a bit of wreckage and held on, then grew weaker and was on the verge of collapse when a voice shouted to him in the darkness and a strong hand drew him to a substantial plank. It was one of his sons, and the pair were saved. Hunick's two other sons were lost.

STORIES OF ESCAPE FROM DEATH TOLD BY FLOOD SURVIVORS

Houses Stand Amid Debris, Untouched by Flood Water

From Plane Over Scene of Dam Disaster, Few Surviving Houses Are Seen, Saved
As If By Miracle.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 14.

—Of the many unusual sights the correspondent of the Associated Press saw on a flight over the devasted San Francisco Canyon, the most impressive were the signs of so many obvious narrow escapes

from disaster experienced by sleeping inhabitants of the rustic little mountain valley.

Looking down on the scene of the desolation from a slowly circling airplane, here and there was seen a lonely home, untouched by the swirl of waters, and seemingly saved as if a mighty force had created barriers around it. Sometimes it appeared that only an inch

had remained between the clutching yellow waters and the homes of some of the more fortunate dwellers.

One home especially stood out as a life saving oasis in the vast desert of death and destruction below.

All around, for a mile on both sides, remained the tell-tale silt and mud, mute evidence that the waters had cut off all possible escape by flight. When the Associated Press airplane, the first to enter the canyon by the aerial route, went soaring over the debris, three small figures could be seen walking around the dwelling, thankful their lives had been spared even though all they had possessed was swept away.

brothers and father are missing
and who was given first aid treatment at Red Cross headquarters, told of the breaking of the dam.

"I heard a roaring and crackling that sounded like two high-tension wires coming together," he said.

"Then with a roar the waters struck the house. My father, who was awakened by the sound, called to my two brothers, Billy and Joe, but evidently they were asleep and did not hear my father.

"We made our way outside together and within two or three minutes we were swimming side by side in the torrent. I managed to catch hold of a limb of a tree and pulled myself up into the upper branches. My father disappeared when the torrent came. When the water had subsided somewhat I swam half a mile to reach shore."

James J. Erretchuo, whose wife and baby were carried away by the flood, said:

"I heard what sounded like a truck with a load of pipe approaching. Suddenly the waters burst through the doors and windows. My first thought was of my limb and baby but I had no opportunity to reach them. I managed to find my way outside and reached a hill near by where I stayed until the waters began to subside."

Half Buried in Silt.

Thelma McCauley of Fillmore, 16 years old, who was ill in bed with the measles when the flood struck the town, was in the water 12 hours and half buried in silt when found. Doctors who gave her emergency treatment said she probably would survive. Her mother and father are among the missing.

Deaths on Way to Boyhood Home.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.

METROPOLIS, Ill., March 14.—

As he was walking along the road back to his old home, five miles from Metropolis, which he left 45 years ago, Charles Oakes Mc-Elroy died of heart disease yesterday. He was about 60 years old and is thought to have been in the West since leaving Massac County.

Two trucks, deserted on the highway, were mute evidence of tragedies. Their drivers, caught in the midst of the torrent, were thought to have been swept away in the swirling waters.

Pete Labara, 18, shouted to his parents to run when he heard the roar of the approaching water. He was told the noise was just the wind. The boy grabbed his 10-year-old sister with one hand and his 12-year-old sister with the other and fled toward the hills. The children escaped, but their parents perished.

Six Persons in One Family Perish
in Flood.

NEW HALL, Cal., March 14.—

Six members of one family were claimed by the flood waters of the St. Francis Reservoir.

A son of C. J. Mathews, who was here when the flood descended on the Mathews Cusquito Valley ranch, was the only one to escape. His wife, Amelia; Thelma Mathews, 12; Charles Mathews, 6; Franklin
Mathews, 4; Carl James Mathews
Jr., 3, and Miss Vida Mathews, daughter of E. G. Mathews, Lynwood, were the victims.

Torrent Cut New Channel 20 Feet Deep and 45 Miles Long.

By the Associated Press.

NEW HALL, Cal., March 14.—

For 45 miles along the Santa Clara Valley the torrent from the broken
St. Francis dam cut a new channel nearly a mile wide and 20 feet deep. One result was that every bridge over the river, except that a Saticoy, was demolished or damaged.

Cost highway traffic was detouring at El Rio to Saticoy, the coast route being open from there to Ventura and thus out of the affected area.

The Southern Pacific Railway's main line service was stopped for 19 hours, while repairs were made to its Montalvo bridge and a portion of undermined track. Four coast passenger trains, which were held up at the point, proceeded late yesterday.

A railroad bridge and 300 feet of track were carried away west of Saugus. On this branch another bridge, 150 feet of steel, was carried away between Castaic and Pardoe. A half mile of track was tossed aside here and 1000 feet of trestle west of Castaic also was torn down.

248 Bodies Recovered in California Dam Flood

Sheriffs and Constables who have been on duty in the flood area since early yesterday were given relief today when 1000 American Legion members from Los Angeles and Ventura Counties volunteered to aid in the search for bodies.

Danger attended the hunt for bodies. The silt in some places was upwards of 20 feet deep and sharp metal wreckage, upstanding nails in wooden debris and jagged rocks menaced the searchers.

Governor Rushes to Scene.

Gov. Young rushed to the stricken area from San Diego, and at Santa Paula announced the beginning today of an official investigation. Gov. Young said that State Engineer Hyatt would conduct the inquiry.

Attempts to determine from rural and telephone lists the number of possible victims unaccounted for were found to be useless when many bodies of victims were brought in whose names did not appear on these lists.

The waters flattened scores of houses, ranches, railroad lines and bridges, tore out wire systems,
light and power wires, gas mains, highways and bridges, and wrecked inestimable loss in flattened and silt buried orange and walnut orchards and other farm lands.

Speculation on the cause of the breaking of the great dam covered a wide variety of theories. The postmistress at Saugus, Mrs. A. K.
Rumsey, said that for 10 days ranchers living in the shadow of the dam had "talked of nothing else" but leaks under and through the structure. She said they discussed the possibility of a disaster.

Demand for relief work and medical supplies was at a minimum as all but a few of the persons in the path of the torrent apparently perished.

Bodies Moved on Pack Trains.

Police officers, sheriffs, valley residents and American Legion-
aries were organized to continue the search for bodies. Pack trains were formed to move bodies from the quagmire where other means of transportation failed.

Supporting Mrs. Rumsey's statement of rumored leaks in the great wall that held back the water for the summer supply of Los Angeles, reports obtained by investigating officers from motorists who had driven through the canyon late Monday.

One automobile driver, according to the investigators, stated that while driving up the canyon road with his wife and family saw an unusual quantity of muddy water coursing through the ordinarily dry stream bed.

Another driver said the officers, drove up to the dam expecting to see the water coming over the spillway, but found none flowing.
Driving closer, he said he noticed that the water behind the buttress

was within three feet of the top and that the spillway gates apparently were closed, although there was a good stream running down the canyon.

Further along the road the au-tost reported, he found a gang of workmen drilling holes apparently in preparation for dynamite blasts to blow off the shoulder of a hill not more than 200 feet from the dam.

"And it was then," the officers reported, "that the officers remarked to my wife that it looked like a pretty heavy charge to set off so close to the dam. We were in the hills until nearly 7 o'clock in the evening, and I am certain the blast was not set off up to that hour for we undoubtedly would have heard it."

Facing serious danger of an outbreak of typhoid fever in the stricken area, health officers announced that every precaution is being taken to cope with the situation.

A water survey has been started to locate adequate sources of pure drinking water. In addition, county health officers established an emergency commissary for flood victims and relief workers, serving them with hot coffee and sandwiches.

Officers pointed out a peculi-arity of the disaster in that while hundreds were dead, but few persons were injured and lived. Those who escaped from the flood seemed to have been unscathed.

The majority of the victims, it is said, were not drowned, but were killed by rolling boulders and heavy pieces of wreckage.

Computation of the damage to hundreds of homes probably will take weeks and even those familiar with the district would not hazard an accurate guess on

At Santa Paula, approximately 20 miles from the dam, the south end of the town, comprising the Mexican quarter was carried away. This section ordinarily housed between 600 and 1000 persons.

The Santa Paula school house in the center of Santa Paula has been converted into a Red Cross station where food and clothing are supplied to refugees and about 100 cases of minor injuries have been treated. Most of the injured were members of parties engaged in recovering bodies who had stepped on nails and jagged rocks.

Ten bridges were washed out in this region, including the finest span in Ventura County, that at Bardonia.

Citrus Groves Suffer Heavily.

Around Saticoy great portions of the highway have been carried away and heavy damage has been inflicted on the citrus groves.

the floors of what had been two houses, the superstructures of both had been carried away.

Rescue camps presented pitiful figures of those who came through with life only—many with loved ones left dead in the valley.

They told stories of how houses and cabins were tossed about like corks on the crest of the tremendous wave, dashed against trees, poles or anything that stood in the way.

Approximately 400 houses in the 16-mile gorge of San Francisco Canyon were torn to bits, thrown and tossed along the 65-mile turbulent sea. Not a standing timber was left as a marker to indicate the site of prosperous little farms that dotted the valley among their green fields. Three hundred more homes at Santa Paula went the same way. Thirty to 40 houses were smashed at Fillmore, and 15 at Piru, nine miles south of there on the Santa Clara River.

As the torrent receded, mountainous blocks of concrete from the dam were discovered half a mile or more from the site of the dam.

President Telegraphs Offer of Aid to California Governor.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—President Coolidge telegraphed to Gov. Young of California today offering all assistance which the army or navy could render in the St. Francis dam disaster.

"Am deeply distressed by the disaster following breaking of the Francis Dam," the telegram said. "Please extend my sympathy to those who have suffered sorrow and loss of property. If the army and the navy can render any assistance, or if I, as head of the Red Cross, can do anything to help, do not fail to call on me."

Woman Awakens When 20 Prisoners at Benton Dig Into Ceiling.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., March 14.—An attempted break by prisoners in the Scott County jail at Benton was frustrated early today after Mrs. E. A. Dye, wife of the Sheriff, was awakened by sounds from the jail.

Twenty prisoners were in the jail, including three arrested here recently and held at Benton as suspects in the holdup of two tourists near Carbondale, Ill., last Friday.

The prisoners had sawed through bars of the cell and were at work digging through the ceiling when surprised.

Son of Pastor Killed by Auto

Son of Pastor Killed by Auto

James Joseph Timmons, 8 years old, son of the Rev. W. J. Timmons, pastor of the First Congregational Church, died today of injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile.

The automobile was driven by Frank Logan, Negro chauffeur for John C. Roberts Jr., 109 Aberdeen place, Logan was questioned by Clayton police, then released pending a coroner's inquest tomorrow.

He was known as "Jimmy Joe" to members of the First Congregational Church and to his fellow pupils at the St. Mary School.

At noon yesterday he had lunch at the church, where his mother was, to obtain money to be put in his savings account at the bank.

He was crossing Arundel place near De Mun avenue, about a block and a half from his home, at 12:45 o'clock, when struck by the automobile. His skull was fractured and his right leg broken in four places. He was removed to St. Mary's Hospital, where he died without regaining consciousness.

Logan, the chauffeur, said the boy stepped into the street from behind a parked truck, which obstructed the view.

Funeral services will be conducted at the First Congregational Church Friday afternoon.

Accident Verdict in Killing of Boy, 4, by Auto.

A coroner's verdict of accident was returned today in the case of George Broome, 4 years old, who died yesterday of injuries suffered Monday when run down by a machine in the 900 block in Cass avenue.

The automobile was driven by Leonard Wiffler, a stationary engineer, 1509 North Twenty-third street. Testimony was that the boy had run suddenly into the street, although an aunt, with whom he was walking, had tried to restrain him. The boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Brooks, live at 1512 North Twelfth street.

wife of Capt. Denis Wyndham, whom he met while serving as a nurse in the mother's hospital during the war. Cut off by her father when he married Capt. Wyndham, who before the war was an actor, she went into the movies and became a popular favorite in England.

London reported the plane carried 450 gallons of gas, which would give it a cruising range of over 3000 miles, enough to safely carry it to a little over 2000 miles from the takeoff point, by the Great Circle route, but hardly enough for a flight to New York, unless favorable tail winds speeded the passage.

Hinchliffe took off in the face of opposition from the British Air Ministry and all sorts of personal difficulties. Even his selection of an American plane, a duplicate of the Brock-Schleier "trans-Atlantic ship," drew unfavorable comment from Englishmen.

Miss Mackay, if she is aboard the "Endeavour," is the fifth woman to attempt a trans-Atlantic crossing. The four previous attempts failed.

Licensed Five Years Ago.

Miss Mackay, who is 35 years old, is one of the pioneer women aviators of England and a licensed pilot. She was licensed five years ago and in 1925 was elected to the Advisory Committee of the Pilots to the Air League, the first woman to be given a hand in the control of British aviation.

Nancy Miller Longed for Hinduism as School Girl

Seattle Woman Says Conversion Fulfilled Long-Cherished Dream, But She Hated to Give Up Christian Religion.

By the Associated Press.

NANKI, India, March 14.—Miss Nancy Miller's conversion fulfills a dream of high school days, back in Seattle, Wash., she said in a statement after the ceremony that made her a Hindu, yesterday.

"I am most grateful to his holiness (Shankaracharya) and these others," she said, "for having made it possible for me to realize my most cherished desire. During my school days I used to read the English translations of some of the most fascinating bits of the ancient Hindu books and, although it was impossible for me to grasp their meaning, I was drawn to them by a peculiar charm for me which time never abated."

"My interest in Indian civilization was suddenly aroused again about two years ago when I met the one who has been the primary cause of the change through which I am now passing. As our acquaintance developed into friendship, my desire to know and to understand India became stronger and old impressions of her great religion and her beautiful mythology revived and I soon began to feel a great change coming over me."

Hated to Quit Christianity.

After declaring her conviction that Hinduism could give her all the guidance needed to make up for any limitations of her knowledge of its tenets, Miss Miller said, "at the same time I must tell you frankly that it is not without pain I sever my connection with the Christian church for I know that nothing in the religion of Christ is to be discarded without disadvantage. I hope that the true spirit of Christianity will continue to be an inspiration of my days to come."

"It is a great consolation to feel that the spirit of Hinduism not only tolerates such an attitude but welcomes it."

She said she did not doubt that Hinduism would enable her to lead a large and fuller life, and she said she would strive not only to be a Hindu, but to be a worthy member of the community to which it now was her privilege to belong.

Miss Miller will marry the former Maharajah of Indore next Saturday, and her conversion to Hinduism was a necessary preliminary to the wedding.

The conversion rites were performed without any observable hindrances or objections, such as had been anticipated. There was a considerable gathering of Indians and some Europeans to witness the rites, and the bride-elect, although evidently impressed at the unaccustomed ritual, fully preserved her composure and self-possession.

Her face betrayed the strain of the rather trying ordeal, this being especially noticeable when she was called upon to renounce the faith of her fathers and solemnly swear adherence during the remainder of her life to the Hindu creed.

After the ceremony Miss Miller said she had found the rites less strenuous than she had expected. She wore no jewelry except a necklace of blue glass beads with red glass bangles.

Hindu maidens, some of them wearing elaborate diamond rings, walked around the sacrificial fire, followed by the priests, Miss Miller, the ceremony, and then squatted on the floor in Indian fashion opposite six priests, who chanted Sanskrit hymns and mantras from the Veda, the holy book of Hinduism.

All of this while other priests tended the holy fire and sprinkled holy water on their fair-skinned convert, signifying her purification. Each time this was done Miss Miller nodded acceptance of the purging.

POISON FOUND IN BODY OF WIDOW IN WILL DISPUTE

Chicago Coroner to Hold Inquest Today in Death of Mrs. Alice Dickinson, Who Left $100,000.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 14.—Poison in sufficient quantities to have caused death has been found in the body of Mrs. Mary Alice Dickinson, wealthy widow, Coroner Oscar Wolff announced last night.

A thorough investigation into the woman's death was promised by the Coroner when he starts his inquest into the case this afternoon. Her body was exhumed at the instigation of relatives who received only $5000 of her $100,000 estate. They indicated the 74-year-old widow did not die of natural causes, and that her will leaving the bulk of her wealth to two nieces was spurious.

After receiving the report of his chemist Wolff said: "Poison in sufficient quantities to have caused death was found in the woman's body. There is nothing ambiguous about the report."

Nieces to Be Summoned.
Miss Grace Johnson and Mrs. Margaret Davies, the nieces who benefited by the will and with whom Mrs. Dickinson lived, will be summoned, the Coroner said. "I can't force them to testify, they can stand on their constitutional rights and refuse to say anything," he added.

Dr. H. W. Nilssen, who attended the widow, previously had told the Coroner he had prescribed a sleeping potion which, if taken overdoses, would have been fatal. The three witnesses to Mrs. Dickinson's will told him they did not see her sign the document nor did not hear it read to her.

Hearing on Will Today.
Today a hearing will begin in Probate Court, where the relatives who started the investigation are contesting the will.

In his report the Coroner's chemist said he found a sedative drug "in amounts such as are found in persons dying of a barbituric acid compound."

Dr. Nilssen said he prescribed a sedative to be taken twice daily and it was possible the patient might have taken an overdose or some had been given accidentally.

CARAWAY CALLS HAYS A 'FENCE' IN DEAL IN OIL BONDS

Former C. O. P. Chairman Disposed of Stolen Goods and Helped Thief Find Market, Senator Says.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Republican Senators again today assailed under an oratorical lash assistant Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and other party leaders for their concealment of facts in the oil scandal. The speaker was the sharp-tongued Caraway of Arkansas.

"I said in 1923 or 1924," said Caraway, "that former Secretary of the Interior Fall was guilty of treason of his country; that he was worse than Benedict Arnold. I was attacked for that statement. But since then the investigation of the leasing of the naval oil reserves has shown a condition of corruption greater than anything that had been disclosed up to that time."

"It has been shown that Fall was not acting alone. No one can doubt that Will H. Hays had full knowledge of what Fall had done and was doing. No one can doubt that he knew the bonds he handled were part of the price of Teapot Dome."

Accuses Four Cabinet Members.
"At least four members of the cabinet—Fall, Hays, Weeks and Mellon—had Sinclair bonds in their possession. No one can doubt they knew where the bonds came from and what was the purpose in handing them around."

"Will Hays acted as a fence in trying to dispose of the bonds. Mellon handed some of them back, and the fence had to look for someone else to hand them to."

"The man who has information of a crime and conceals it cannot go before the public and say that he is innocent."

"If the three American soldiers who arrested Maj. Andre had manifested no more curiosity, no more patriotism, than did Mellon, National Chairman Butler and the others who handled the bonds, they would have released Andre without searching him and West Point would have been delivered to the British by Arnold."

Says Mellon Hid Facts.

In a tone of immense disgust, Caraway said a Philadelphia paper had featured the "thanking" of Mellon by the Oil Committee for his patriotism. He repeated that Mellon must have known the bonds were tainted and again charged him with the concealment of valuable information.

"Why," he said "Mr. Mellon actually lent investigators to the committee while he was keeping silent about $50,000 worth of bonds that had been in his own possession."

"It has been suggested that restitution should be made—that the money should be returned to Sinclair. But restitution can do nothing to right this wrong. It's not the money that constitutes the infamy of this transaction; it's the transaction itself. There is no way this side of heaven to make restitution for the infamous crime that was perpetrated upon the country."

Oldfield Calls on Coolidge to 'Clean House' After Oil Scandal.

Representative William A. Oldfield of Arkansas, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, in a statement today called on President Coolidge to drop his complacent attitude toward the oil scandal and the tainted financing of the $20 Republican campaign and come to the active assistance of the Senate Teapot Dome investigation.

Calling attention to the testimony of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and others before the committee, Oldfield said it had been plainly established that certain members of the Coolidge Cabinet knew a part of the loot of the Teapot Dome oil transaction was used to finance the Republican party.

"Upon President Coolidge," he said, "there devolves a duty not only to 'clean house' by forcing the restitution of this illicit money to Harry F. Sinclair, but to aid Senator Walsh and his colleagues in running down all the facts about the scandalous transactions."

Don't Have Dark,
Rough, Red, Chapped
Or Sallow Skin

Women who neglect their skin or through lack of proper understanding of its care, the complexion of their youth slip from them, and more to be pitied than censured. No woman can possibly hold or acquire the true love of man if she is indifferent to her personal charms. Don't sigh for that delicate, smooth, white skin that was yours but yesterday, for these charms can be returned to you and with proper care you may again have a smooth, pink-white skin that is a pleasure to see.

All that is necessary to achieve this is to apply a little Ice-Mint to the face, hands, arms of shoulders just before retiring and then note the daily improvement in the beauty of your skin. Ice-Mint is a rich snow-white cream that contains a Japanese product that nourishes, whitens and tones up the tissues acting as a tonic to dry, dark, rough, old or sallow skin. This rich, tonic cream is unsurpassed for its beautifying properties and is used everywhere by the best beauty shops and specialists. You can get Ice-Mint at little cost from any druggist and you will be surprised at the real beauty it brings to face, hands, arms, shoulders or wherever applied.

The distinction between ordinary clothes and the really smart is made up of many small details, which are scarcely noticeable one by one, but which tell strongly in the general effect.

Well-dressed men in St. Louis appreciate these things in Losse tailoring, without always knowing just why. Perhaps you hardly realize what it means when we tell you our "GLEN ADDIE" line of woollens comprises 30 patterns. You know only that among them it is easy to find something that pleases your own individual taste.

"GLEN ADDIE," you know, is the very Scotch fabric of all-weather weight that you should look at just now. Suits are $60. (Others $50 to $70.)

U. S. POPULATION 120,000,000, SAYS CENSUS BUREAU

Estimate as of July 1, 1928, Shows Increase of 14 Per Cent Over Official Count in 1920.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 14.—A provisional estimate by the Census Bureau today placed the population of the United States as of July 1, 1928, at 120,013,000, an increase of 14 per cent over the 105,710,620 actual count of Jan. 1, 1920. The next Federal census will be taken before 1930.

The new total was arrived at by estimating the increase since 1920 on the basis of the best available returns on births, deaths, immigration and emigration.

The bureau also apportioned the increase on this basis for the 48 states and the District of Columbia.

Florida, where the population was estimated to have increased about 48 per cent between 1920 and 1928, showed the greatest gain, although a 25-per-cent increase was indicated for California, and nearly 30 per cent gain for Michigan.

The following table shows the actual census of 1920 by states and their estimated population for next July 1, the estimates being made by distributing the total increase of the United States on the basis of the increase by states from 1910 to 1920, or, where there has been a State census, from 1920 to 1925, except that where there was a decrease between 1910 and 1920, or between 1920 and 1925, the 1920 or 1925 census figure is retained and no estimate is made:

Mothers, Do This—

When the children cough, rub Muterole on their throats and chests. No telling how soon the symptoms may develop into croup, or worse. And then's when you're glad you have a jar of Muterole at hand to give prompt relief.

As first aid, Muterole is excellent. Keep a jar ready for instant use. It is the remedy for adults, too. Relieves sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, chilblains, frost-bitten feet and colds of the chest (it may prevent them).

To Mothers: Muterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Muterole.

Chamber of Commerce Attorney Wants Six East Side Roads to Build Facilities.

The six East Side railroads, whose less-than-carload St. Louis freight is now hauled to St. Louis stations by transfer companies, should be required to build off-track stations on the Missouri side of the river, so that the freight could be delivered direct over the rails of the Terminal.

That is the recommendation of Glendy B. Arnold, attorney for the Chamber of Commerce, in a brief filed today with the Interstate Commerce Commission. In the brief, Arnold continues the opposition of the Chamber of Commerce to an effort of the Columbia Terminals Co. to get a freight transfer monopoly.

Such a monopoly, it is stated in the brief, would, if authorized by the commission, leave competing companies "without a Chinaman's chance of getting fair treatment." Arnold asks, therefore, that the commission refuse to approve a tariff in which the 14 trunkline railroads would recognize the Columbia Terminals Co. as their only authorized transfer agent.

As was told when the question was being argued before Examiner Ames of the commission, the East Side roads have their freight relayed to St. Louis by transfer companies, giving the haulers a share of the freight tariffs for their work and placing the shipments within reach of the consignee. The effort of the Columbia Terminals Co. to gain a monopoly of this business was opposed by the receivers of the Chicago & Alton Railroad, the St. Louis Shippers' Conference Association, the Association of Team and Truck Owners and the City of St. Louis.

WOMAN MAYOR BEATEN IN SEATTLE ELECTION

Frank Edwards, "Dark Horse" Candidate, Defeats Mrs. Bertha K. Landes by 19,000.

By the Associated Press.
SEATTLE, Wash., March 14.—Mrs. Bertha K. Landes, first woman Mayor of a large city in the United States, was overwhelmingly defeated for re-election as Seattle's chief executive yesterday by Frank Edwards, a "dark horse" candidate.

Edwards, a retired theater operator, won by 19,000 votes. Near the close of the campaign, Edwin J. Brown, who lost to Mrs. Landes by 6000 votes when he ran for a third term two years ago, joined the ranks of the Mayor, whom he also had opposed in the primaries this year.

The King County Prosecutor Monday began an investigation of expenditures in Edwards' primary campaign when the manager of one of the candidates, reputedly acknowledged that more money had been spent than the $15,000 reported in the official statement. Complete unofficial returns gave Edwards 53,033 votes and Mrs. Landes 33,889.

POULTRY AND DOGS POISONED

Woman Asks Police for Protection Against Further Loss.
Mrs. Mary Rosenkrantz of 4978 Lansdowne avenue, asked police for protection last night against unknown persons, who, she says, have poisoned her chickens, ducks, guinea fowls and dogs in the last year. She showed police a quantity of ground meat and a dead duck, declaring the meat was poisoned and had been thrown in her yard.

She has lost, she said, 25 chickens, 12 ducks, a pair of guinea fowl and three dogs since the early part of 1927. One of the dogs, she declared, had been shot. The other two were poisoned.

A great dentifrice that cleans with amazing speed

There are many excellent dentifrices on the market selling at a trifle above or below 50c—but is it necessary to pay that much? Why not a first-class dentifrice at 25c—scientifically correct for all types of teeth?

Believing this to be a sound price, we created Listerine Tooth Paste at 25c for a large tube. It is the result of more than fifty years' study of tooth and mouth troubles. Now it is sweeping the country. Everywhere it is supplanting older and costlier dentifrices that accomplish no more.

Due to the presence of an amazing new and gentle polishing agent, it keeps teeth gleaming white with almost no brushing. Included also are certain ingredients we have found most ideal in keeping the mouth and gums fresh and healthy.

We ask you to try this paste for its delightful and speedy cleansing, and for its marked saving (quite substantial in a large family). Get a tube at your druggist's today. Try it for a month. See how it makes teeth gleam. Note how good your mouth feels after using it. Compare it with any paste you have ever used and judge by results alone. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. "Bitter Weed" Kills 1000 Sheep.
By the Associated Press.
SAN ANGELO, Tex.—More than the weed and to find a cure for sheep that have eaten the weed.

TRIAL UNDER HENRY ACT

Preston Mullins Gets 10 Years, Accomplice 15, for Drug Store Holdup.

Rather than stand trial and have the State demand the death penalty for him under the new Henry law, Preston Mullins, 19 years old, of 2651 Cook avenue, pleaded guilty today to a charge of first degree robbery and accepted the minimum penalty, 10 years in the penitentiary.

In the first trial in St. Louis under the Henry law, Mullins' codefendant, William Kennedy, 22 years old, of 809 North Grand boulevard, was found guilty last night
by a jury which fixed the 10-year minimum penalty. They were charged jointly with robbing the drug store of Sidney Kieffer Sr., 1101 Salisbury street, of $310 and 41 pints of whiskey last Dec. 7.

Mullins also pleaded guilty to two other charges of robbery under the old statute, fixing penalties from five years to life imprisonment, and was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary on each charge, the sentences to run concurrently.

Kennedy then pleaded guilty before Judge Killoren to the same two charges under the old statute and five years was added to the 10-year penalty fixed by the jury because he had put the State to the trouble of trying him. Before going to trial yesterday, he refused an offer of the State to plead guilty and accept a sentence of 10 years on all three charges.

The State, contending Mullins actually carried the revolver used in the drug store holdup, waived
the death penalty in Kennedy's case but intended to invoke it against Mullins.

During his trial, Kennedy was identified by Kieffer. He repudiated a statement made to police after his arrest, confessing the drugstore holdup and several other robberies, and presented an alibi.

The Henry law became effective last July 1. Prosecutors may proceed either under it or the old law.

707 Pupils in Town Have the "Flu" closed today because 707 pupils—

one-third the school enrollment—are suffering from influenza. While many cases are characterized by physicians as "severe," there have been no fatalities. Authorities hope to check spread of the disease by closing the schools.

KENTUCKY WAVERS BETWEEN REED AND GOV. SMITH

One-Day Campaign of Missourian in State Ends Apparent Cinch for New Yorker.

By CURTIS A. BETTS, Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 14.—Kentucky, a Smith State in the calculations of politicians, has become a doubtful state on the Democratic presidential nomination since a one-day campaign of United States Senator James A. Reed of Missouri here yesterday.

Reed made an ingenious drive to break down sentiment for Gov. Smith of New York, which had developed largely by the defeat of any other candidate to question it, and without any real Smith organization pushing it.

The fight here will be between the Smith and Reed forces, with the outcome involved in a local political organization contest for the control of the party machinery in the State. Neither of the groups in this fight is committed to Reed or Smith and the Reed tactics undoubtedly will be to attempt to destroy a personal preference which Lieutenant-Governor James A. Breathitt has had for Smith and to convert him to Reed's supporter.

Breathitt, a young comer in Kentucky politics, has been on the side of the racing interests in the race track fight, a major issue in this State, and has fought the Ku Klux Klan. He is looked upon as virtually the only hope for forceful leadership among the old line of Kentucky Democrats.

Breathitt has been known as a Smith supporter, but throughout the day yesterday he was in conference with Reed and with State Senator William Duffy of Louisville, who has taken over preliminary leadership for Reed in the State.

According to the information obtainable, Breathitt is not so far mixed into the Smith campaign that he cannot withdraw and lead the Kentucky fight for Reed, and there are some indications that within a few weeks that will come about.

Duffy, a Catholic, prefers Reed to Smith. While religion is a question evaded here in political discussion, as it is in most places, there is a strong anti-Catholic feeling in rural Kentucky. Duffy, a thoroughly practical politician, does not believe Smith could carry Kentucky in the general election because of this condition. He believes that Reed could. Breathitt is a member of the Episcopal Church and his liking for Smith has nothing of religion in it.

Rural Kentucky also is classed as dry, and those grouping together now as friendly to Reed believe it will be much easier to carry the State for Reed than for Smith for this reason. Reed, of course, is looked upon as wet, but he appears not to be obnoxious to the radical dries on that score as does Smith.

Assail G. O. P. Tariff. In his speech yesterday before the State Legislature in joint session, Reed was heard by an audience that taxed the capacity of the hall of the House of Representatives, the galleries and aisles being packed. Devoted largely to the subject of corruption in government, as have been his other speeches, Reed led the question of this corruption right to the pocketbook of Kentuckians.

Tracing his theory that corruption in government and in elections was directly attributable to the protective tariff, Reed said Republican leaders were responsible for the growth of the huge-tariff made fortunes, and that the holders of these fortunes naturally contributed immense sums to the Republican party that the tariff might be continued.

He held up Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and his associates in Pennsylvania as chief beneficiaries of the tariff, and then proceeded to show just how the influence of these Pennsylvania politicians had affected Kentucky. There are extensive coal mines in this State that are in competition with the coal mines of Pennsylvania. Recently there was a decision by the Interstate Commerce Commission that Southern railroads could not lower their rates in Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia coal because such a reduction in rates would give the mines of those states an advantage over those of Pennsylvania.

"You have natural advantages," Reed said. "Your railroads are willing to reduce rates and say such proposed rates will compensate them for the service performed. And the Interstate Commerce Commission refuses to permit the rates to be lowered, keeping coal prices up for the benefit of the Pennsylvania operators."

Reed delivered one speech in the Senate in denunciation of this action of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and his added remarks yesterday found favor with his hearers.

Apparently the cumulative evidence of corruption is beginning to reach the thoughts of the individual. Reed was applauded vigorously here when he drilled in on that subject. While the larger part of his audience was Democratic, the Republican members of the Legislature were there and there were said to be a large number of other Republicans. After the speech, Reed had a reception in the office of the Speaker of the House, and later called to pay his respects to Gov. Sappington, a Republican. He attended a tea at the home of the Lieutenant-Governor, and in the evening was the guest of Senator Duffy at a dinner at the Capital Hotel, attended by state officials and State Senators.

Senator Reed departed last night for Washington, where he will remain until the latter part of the month, when he will go into North Carolina for two speeches, then into Wisconsin for several, and probably after that into Ohio.

Reed's campaign here was a success. He made a strong impression on the minds of the people, and his denunciation of corruption is beginning to reach the thoughts of the individual.

speech, Reed had a reception in the office of the Speaker of the House, and later called to pay his respects to Gov. Sappington, a Republican. He attended a tea at the home of the Lieutenant-Governor, and in the evening was the guest of Senator Duffy at a dinner at the Capital Hotel, attended by state officials and State Senators.

Senator Reed departed last night for Washington, where he will remain until the latter part of the month, when he will go into North Carolina for two speeches, then into Wisconsin for several, and probably after that into Ohio.

HANK WEEKE, BACK IN RING, WINS SEAT IN BIG CONVENTION

Will Take Own Candidate, a Negro, to National Gathering; Beats Goldstein Man.

"Hank" Weeke, back in the political ring again after a long, but finally successful, fight for naturalization as an American citizen, won a seat today in the next Republican national convention.

His own candidate, J. W. McIntyre, a Negro clerk in the city water rates office, also was elected a delegate to the national convention, from the Eleventh Congressional District, at the district convention this morning at 1909 St. Louis avenue.

The delegates were not instructed. Weeke said after the convention that he had no favorite candidate "except," he added, "I am not for Hoover." McIntyre is expected to follow Weeke in voting.

It had been a foregone conclusion, of course, that Weeke was to be elected himself, but the election of McIntyre was more or less unforeseen. Followers of Nat Goldstein, the Nineteenth Ward boss, had put forth William H. Butler, a Negro, as their candidate.

Strings Along With Weeke. In the past few days former Circuit Judge Blesse had been mentioned as the likely candidate to pair with Weeke but that proved today to be a blind. McIntyre was nominated by Committeeman John Hurley of the 20th ward, who was stringing along with Weeke, and when the voting was over McIntyre had 28 votes to Butler's 24.

Justice of the Peace Meyers, first lieutenant of Goldstein, had nominated Butler and believed prior to the meeting that Butler was sure of election. After the meeting Meyers declared he had been "crossed" by delegations from the Twenty-second and Twenty-sixth wards but it was easy to see, even from the outside, that the better explanation was merely that Weeke had done a little work in advance of the meeting.

An alternate to Weeke and McIntyre the convention named Mrs. Dora Luetkenholder of 1316A North Market street, committeewoman from the Third ward, and Mrs. John A. Wicks of 3103 Abner place, committeewoman of the Twenty-second ward.

FOR ACTION ON SLOT MACHINES
Securities Commissioner Urges Prosecutors to Begin Suits.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, March 14.—State Securities Commissioner F. T. Stockard today sent a request to prosecuting attorneys of all counties of the State to institute action against companies operating slot machines, to compel them to comply with the State foreign corporation laws, and to pay a State corporation license fee.

Stockard said nearly 100 companies "were operating slot machines in the State, all corporations formed in other States. He said the companies had entered Missouri without qualifying under the corporation laws or paying a license to do business in the State. His action was based on an opinion from the Attorney-General that any company maintaining such machines within the State came under the foreign corporation law and was subject to its requirements. DANDRUFF

A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and dinging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will grow thick, lustrous, glossy, and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy never fails.

FOCH SAYS WIFE BROKE HIS MUSICAL SPIRIT

He Could Not Compose After Marriage, Orchestra Director Testifies at Hearing.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 14.—"After I married I couldn't compose any music," Dirk Foch, the Dutch orchestra conductor testified before Supreme Court Justice Levy yesterday afternoon.

"Wait, I didn't get that," exclaimed Charles E. Lebarbier, lawyer who leads the fight against Foch's attempt to win custody of his daughter, Nina, 4 years old.

"Did you say you didn't compose music after you married?" After I married I couldn't compose any music," Foch repeated.

Mrs. Consuelo Flowerston Foch, former member of the Ziegfeld Follies, mother of the child and her present custodian, sat immediately in front of the witness box.

her blue-gray eyes glaring at the man who divorced her, and frequently exclaimed in a bitter whisper: "That's a lie." It was she who was supposed to have killed Foch's creative inspiration.

Motion to Sit Down. Although Foch was under examination only of his own lawyer, Miss Anna Rosenfeld, he and Lebarbier had several things to say to each other.

Once, when Lebarbier arose to make an objection Foch extended both hands and made motions that, for an orchestra, would have meant pianissimo, but for Lebarbier it meant, "Sit down—hard."

Lebarbier flushed from his collar to his white hair, and demanded to know why Foch assumed to tell him when to sit.

"It makes me nervous," was the answer, genially.

"Oh, it makes you nervous, does it?" Lebarbier rejoined, and there the tiff ended.

A clash of national allegiance came out during Foch's testimony. When asked whether he had taken out American citizenship papers, he said: "I am Dutch and I shall die Dutch."

He said his father was former president of the Dutch Parliament and former Governor-General of the Dutch East Indies.

an uncle retired only a short time ago as admiral of the Dutch Navy, and that a grandfather formerly was commissary of the Queen.

Foch said his mother-in-law, Mrs. Alexander Flowerston, abused her daughter for marrying "a dirty Dutchman." When his wife was in Holland in 1924, expecting a child, he said, she feared her mother would beat her for "having a Dutch baby in Holland."

As he said this, Mrs. Foch turned around, smiled at her mother and asked, "Were you going to beat me?"

Foch took Nina in his arms during the morning for the first good hug he had given her since last April. He held her for an instant last Dec. 23, when he tried to kidnap her.

While her mother watched suspiciously, the child was taken a few minutes by her father at Justice Levy's direction.

"Dirk's Naughty." Nina recognized him and smiled, but prattled, "Dirk's naughty, Dirk's naughty." Foch's face flamed at this, but he asked her reently, "Who told you to say that?"

"Mommie," she answered. Mrs. Foch looked unconcerned.

The occasion for the recess during which the father held his child was Foch's suddenly taking the floor while another person was on the stand and protesting in a torrent of English and Dutch. Justice Levy pounded his gavel and called a recess.

Turn Hair Dark With Sage Tea
By JEAN MACON

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grand mother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product for only 75 cents, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound."

It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

For Cold Weather PAINTING

MOST manufacturers recommend the use of at least 12 1/2% of turpentine as a thinner for house paint in winter weather. Read the directions on the paint can and add the necessary amount of turpentine.

But be sure it's genuine spirits of turpentine. Hercules Steam-Distilled Wood Turpentine is a guaranteed turpentine. It imparts a smooth-flowing, fine working quality to paint and varnish. It evaporates quickly but it leaves no solvent breaking before setting, so that you can do a first class job.

Sold in 5 gallon, 1 gallon and 1 quart cans and 30-gallon drums. Label and directions identify pure spirits of turpentine. Sold at all stores where paint is sold.

PROPOSERS PLAN TO CLEAR THE WAY FOR RAPID TRANSIT

Effort to Remove Obstacles
to Be Begun at Aldermanic Hearing Tomorrow Night.

PROPERTY OWNERS' VIEWS ARE SOUGHT

Definite Knowledge of Amount of Levy Demanded.

A process of seeking out and remedying defects which developed in previous efforts at rapid transit legislation is to be begun tomorrow night by proponents of a St. Louis subway plan at a public hearing of the Aldermanic Ways and Means Committee.

Specifically, the meeting has been called for a discussion of a bill providing for the formation of a Rapid Transit Commission to work out details of the subway plan. Actually, it is to determine on what grounds certain downtown banking and property-holding interests based their opposition to the rapid transit enabling act which died in the last Legislature.

It will be recalled that the enabling act was a blanket measure, simply giving St. Louis the right to build a subway or other rapid transit medium and leaving to the city the decision on financing plans. Downtown property interests, or some of them, at least, felt that the act left too broad a power to the city and made it possible that their property might be assessed an unfair share of the cost of the improvement.

Cost of Broad Plan.
At that time no definite decision had been made on financing plans for the project. It was believed, after a survey, that a comprehensive subway plan would cost $100,000,000. This money could be raised by several means.

One of them was by bond issue, a plan rejected as impracticable for many reasons. Under the plan, the city would be required to pay the cost of the subway, but the city would not be required to pay the cost of the subway.

A plan partaking of both schemes was discussed among proponents of the rapid transit idea as the best to adopt, but it was not incorporated in the enabling act, so that passage of the act left the city open to pursue any method it saw fit.

Under the plan, the city would be required to pay the cost of the subway, but the city would not be required to pay the cost of the subway.

Spreading the cost of the subway over a broad section of the city, which the subway would actually benefit, the cost of the project would impose no great burden on any property. In Detroit, where a subway project is under way, the highest tax levy is under 23 cents a square foot for property immediately adjoining subway stations, while it scales down to 14 cents a foot for property a half mile from stations.

When it became apparent last spring that downtown opposition was killing the chances of the enabling act for passage, Mayor Miller called a meeting of interested persons to hear their complaints. The afternoon's discussion touched upon the percentage of the cost to be levied against benefited property, and the extent and character of the proposed benefit district, but always it came down to the basic question, "How much will it cost us in the downtown district, who are the most benefited?"

Mayor Miller gave his assurance to the interests represented at the meeting that the taxes they would have to pay would not be excessive, but they adhered to their position that they must have specific assurance of that under the terms of any legislation that was proposed.

Harold M. Fray, president of the First National Bank, said that downtown interests would support transit legislation only if they were assured fair treatment in the proceedings. He would make an effort to make an aldermanic committee he and would not recede from positions. So it was that the rapid transit move failed, for the time being, largely because it had been put into sufficiently definite terms. The enabling act, which was passed in 1924, and only a few had been approved by the necessary enabling legislation in the State Legislature.

Under the plan, the city would be required to pay the cost of the subway, but the city would not be required to pay the cost of the subway.

The resolution was adopted by a vote of 48 to 25, after the Senate had passed the Norris resolution providing for Government operation of Muscle Shoals as a plant in time of war and as a fertilizer factory and power plant in time of peace.

The measure now goes to the House, where the Military Committee is considering Muscle Shoals legislation, but along different from that which the Senate provided.

The vote came after nearly two weeks of debate in which times were disregarded on the and half of amendments offered the resolution as it came from committee.

Now, however, it is proposed to organize a Citizens' Campaign first, frame a definite which will have the support of affected interests, and, only that has been done, go to the State Legislature to get the plan in operation. It is the bill to form such a commission that the aldermanic committee hearing is to be held tomorrow night.

PROponents PLAN
TO CLEAR THE WAY FOR RAPID TRANSIT

to Be Begun at Aldermanic Hearing Tomorrow Night.

PROPERTY OWNERS' VIEWS ARE SOUGHT

Definite Knowledge of Amount of Levy Demanded.

A process of seeking out and removing defects which developed in previous efforts at rapid transit legislation is to be begun tomorrow night by proponents of a St. Louis subway plan at a public hearing of the Aldermanic Ways and Means Committee.

Specifically, the meeting has been called for a discussion of a bill providing for the formation of a Rapid Transit Commission to work out details of the subway plan. Actually, it is to determine on what grounds certain downtown banking and property-holding interests based their opposition to the rapid transit enabling act which died in the last Legislature.

It will be recalled that the enabling act was a blanket measure, simply giving St. Louis the right to build a subway or other rapid transit system and leaving to the city the decision on financing plans. Downtown property interests, or some of them, at least, felt that the act left too broad a power to the city and made it possible that their property might be assessed an unfair share of the cost of the improvement.

Cost of Broad Plan.
At that time no definite decision had been made on financing plans for the project. It was believed, after a survey, that a comprehensive subway plan would cost $100,000,000. This money could be raised by several means. One of them was by bond issue, a plan rejected as impracticable for many reasons, including the consideration that it levied the cost equally upon all city property holders when the benefits of a rapid transit system would not be equally distributed. Another plan was the raising of the money by direct assessment, which also was rejected for the same reason.

A plan parlaying of both schemes was discussed among proponents of the rapid transit idea as the best to adopt, but it was not so simple. The enabling act, so that passage of the act left the city open to pursue any method it saw fit. Under the plan tentatively selected, however, the major portion of the cost of the subway, about 75 per cent, would have been levied against benefited property and the remainder would have been raised by bond issue, to be paid off by money realized in the operation of the subway, or in other words, by the fares of the car riders.

In opposing the act to the last, however, the downtown interests held to the proposition that they must know how much the subway was going to cost them, in dollars and cents, and must see themselves protected from unduly high assessments by specific provision of the act, before they could support it.

Financial Considerations.
In determining the cost of the project against any piece of property, two considerations enter, namely, the percentage of the subway cost to be levied upon the benefited district and what comprises the benefited district? Spread over a broad section of the city, which the subway would actually benefit, the cost of the project would impose no great burden on any property. In Detroit, where a subway project is under way, the highest tax levy is to be 28 cents a square foot for property immediately adjoining subway stations, while it scales down to 1/2 cent a foot for property a half mile from stations.

When it became apparent last night that downtown opposition was killing the chances of the enabling act for passage, Mayor Miller called a meeting of interested persons at the Mayfair Hotel and heard their complaints. The afternoon's discussion touched upon the percentage of the cost to be levied against benefited property, and the extent and character of the proposed benefit district, but always it came down to the basic question, "How much will it cost us in the downtown district, who are the most benefited?"

Mayor Miller gave his assurance to the interests represented at the meeting that the taxes they would have to pay would not be excessive, but they must have specific assurance of that under the terms of any legislation that was proposed.

SENATE PASSES BILL FOR U. S.
TO OPERATE MUSCLE SHOALS

Norris Resolution Adopted, Providing for Nitrate and Fertilizer Manufacture—Debate Lasted Three Weeks.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—The Senate yesterday adopted and sent to the House the Norris resolution providing for Government operation of Muscle Shoals as a nitrate plant in time of war and as a fertilizer factory and power production plant in time of peace.

The resolution was adopted by a vote of 48 to 25, after the Harrison substitute, which passed the Senate in 1926 in the form of the Underwood bill only to die through failure of the House to act, was rejected, 48 to 25.

Twenty Republicans, 27 Democrats and the lone Farmer-Labor member voted for the resolution, while 15 Republicans and 10 Democrats cast their ballot against Government operation.

The measure now goes to the House, where the Military Committee is considering Muscle Shoals legislation, but along different lines from that which the Senate approved.

The vote came after nearly three weeks of debate in which party lines were disregarded on the score and half of amendments offered to the resolution as it came from committee.

Those voting for the Norris Muscle Shoals resolution were: Republicans—Borah, Brookhart, Capper, Couzens, Cutting, Doene, Frazier, Gooding, Howell, Johnson, Jones, La Follette, McMaster, McNary, Norbeck, Norris, Nye, Schall, Steiwer and Waterman—20.

Democrats—Ashurst, Barkley, Black, Caraway, Copeland, Dill, Fletcher, George, Glass, Harris, Hayden, Hefflin, Hiram, Hiram, Mayfield, Neely, Ransdell, Robinson of Arkansas, Sheppard, Simmons, Smith, Stephens, Swanson, Thomas, Wagner, Walsh of Massachusetts and Wheeler—27.

Farmer-Labor—Shipstead—1. Total, 48.

Those against the resolution were: Republicans—Bingham, Curtis, Dale, Edge, Fess, Greene, Hale, McLean, Metcalf, Odell, Phillips, Reed of Pennsylvania, Sackett, Shortridge and Willis—15.

Democrats—Bayard, Bleasie, Bruce, Edwards, Gerry, Harrison, Hawes, King, Steck and Tydings—10.

Reed of Missouri was absent.

Hays Admits Speculating in Stocks of Teapot Dome Lessee, but Tries to Justify His Acts.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Yesterday was one of the most exciting days in the long and spectacular history of the Senate oil investigation. The Teapot Dome Committee heard three witnesses, all of whom have held, and still hold, commanding positions in the life of the nation. What they said, what they did not say, and their contrasting attitudes toward the stand, kept a packed committee room palpitating with drama for four tense hours. This is the summary:

Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, owner of one of the world's greatest fortunes, and generally credited with being the most influential member of the Coolidge administration, testified that in 1923 Will H. Hays offered him $50,000 in Liberty bonds which had come from Harry Sinclair, in return for a contribution of $50,000 toward the Republican party deficit. He said he returned the bonds when he learned their source, and saw nothing suspicious in the offer, did not connect it with the Teapot Dome scandal and regarded it as of little importance that he did not trouble to inform the committee about it, although he knew it was endeavoring to trace the Sinclair bonds.

Butler Also Unsuspicious.
William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican National Committee, former Senator from Massachusetts, and intimate personal friend of President Coolidge testified that Hays made a similar offer to him of $25,000 in bonds, and that he also returned the bonds when he learned their source. He said he did not connect it with the Teapot Dome scandal and regarded it as of little importance that he did not trouble to inform the committee about it, although he knew it was endeavoring to trace the Sinclair bonds.

Will H. Hays, "Czar" of the motion picture industry, chairman of the Republican National Committee during the Harding administration, testified that he had accepted the offer of $50,000 from Hays, but that he had not returned the bonds when he learned their source. He said he did not connect it with the Teapot Dome scandal and regarded it as of little importance that he did not trouble to inform the committee about it, although he knew it was endeavoring to trace the Sinclair bonds.

How Witnesses Behaved.
For nearly two hours Secretary Mellon wavered feebly, hesitating over his answers, indulging in wandering and unresponsive replies, as an incredulous committee of Senators endeavored to learn why he had withheld for more than four years information which they had turned heaven and earth to obtain.

For a full two hours Hays fought back like a cornered rat as Senator Walsh hammered him savagely for his two previous attempts to deceive the committee—the first time he had failed to give the committee the facts, and the second time he had lied. Alternately he squirmed and blustered, evaded and defied.

The testimony of Butler was much briefer and surer than that of Mellon or Hays.

HAYS SPECULATED IN SINCLAIR STOCKS
HE TELLS COMMITTEE

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Will H. Hays, keeper of the conscience of the movie industry and former chairman of the Republican National Committee, underwent yesterday afternoon a savage grilling at the hands of the Senate's Teapot Dome investigating committee, which demanded to know a great deal more than Hays had told previously about his attempted masking of the contributions of Harry F. Sinclair toward the payment of the 1920 Republican campaign deficit. Hays was on the stand for two hours.

The committee got from Hays a perfect torrent of words, words now true, now greatly exaggerated, now naive, but it didn't get much new light on the subject. "It's too deep for me," murmured Senator Wagner (Dem.), New York, after one of Hays' long explanations of why, instead of telling the National Committee that he had got $250,000 in bonds from Sinclair, he planted blocks of these bonds with wealthy angels of the Republican party, Andrew W. Mellon and others, and sought to have them put up equal amounts in their own names.

Mellon and Butler Testify.
Hays preceded on the stand by Secretary Mellon and William M. Butler, the present chairman of the National Committee. Mellon had told about Hays' effort late in 1923 to get him to accept $50,000 of the Sinclair bonds as "security" for a contribution by Mellon to the committee.

Butler had related the story of a similar effort by Hays in his own case, the amount of bonds this time being $25,000. Both had testified that they had not returned the bonds when they learned their source, and that they had not connected it with the Teapot Dome scandal.

Trying to Pin Hays Down.
"Now," he said, "was not that question accurate except in the particular that the bonds you got from Sinclair were Government bonds and not Sinclair Consolidated bonds?"

Walsh reminded him that the question was the very first of the lot, so that it didn't make any difference what context followed it. "Take the whole context," he said.

A Difference of One Word.
Hays sat down. "Whatever the value was," said Walsh, the only error in that question was that it said "Consolidated bonds and not Government bonds."

Walsh took up again the 1924 statement of Hays that Sinclair had given only $75,000 and contrasted that with his testimony two weeks ago that Sinclair gave $160,000 and lent $100,000 more. He asked whether Hays would care to comment on that testimony.

"Why don't you read it all?" demanded Walsh.

WARNS INDUSTRY

Representative Davenport Declares Control by State Commissions Is Inade-

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—The power industry, the amount of electrical energy transmitted in interstate commerce at "a small fraction of the total produced," Congressman Davenport (Rep., New York), declared in a radio address last night that the Federal Government should "assume the necessary measures of control" to prevent public abuses through mergers and consolidations in the power industry.

On the same program, which was sponsored by the National League of Women Voters and broadcast through the chain of the National Broadcasting Co., Howard T. Sands, president of the National Electric Light Association, spoke on behalf of producers of electrical power and O. C. Merrill, secretary of the Federal Power Commission, reviewed the history and development of the electric industry in America. Representative Davenport spoke to the consumers.

Warnings Against Exploitation.
"If it keeps its head," the New Yorker declared, the electrical industry has "a great and prosperous future."

"It must not," he continued, "take advantage of its monopoly position to extort an unreasonable profit or exploit the investor, and it must recognize that it has an important economic social function to fulfill."

As a means of combating abuses that might appear, he suggested that the Government regulate the industry and "control power" of the Constitution.

Denies Existence of Trust.
He warned, too, against being misled by statistics showing a rise in rates to consumers. He denied that this constituted any undue discrimination, argued since the large consumer could be served at a smaller per unit of power, he should have the advantage of the difference.

Many companies, he said, have domestic rate schedules so designed that the customers may obtain a greatly reduced rate for a small extended use of electricity in home.

He denied categorically the existence of any "power trust" in America and in support of his contention cited the findings of the Federal Trade Commission in its recent survey of the industry.

Merrill, after reviewing the development of the industry said the present problem was how to throw around it the proper unit of power. He should have its legitimate development unperpetrated.

"With the exception of an occasional instance, where it is necessary to secure a raise to develop water power," he said, "the Federal Government has not assumed its authority."

BURGLAR IN Y. M. C. A. CAUGHT AFTER CHASE

Bricks Thrown in Run Down Street to Rear of Hotel Jefferson, Where Arrest Is Made.

After a chase down Locust street early today, in which bricks were thrown both by quarry and pursuer, a burglar, who had been routed from a room in the Y. M. C. A., at Sixteenth street, was captured in the rear of Hotel Jefferson at Twelfth boulevard.

He said he was Nelson Turpin, 22 years old, of Evansville, Ind., and admitted that a diamond ring and cash found in his pockets had been stolen from Fred J. Lock of Toledo, O., a guest at the Y. M. C. A. Lock had been assigned to a room after Turpin had left it Monday morning without paying his bill.

Shortly before 4 a. m. today, Turpin admitted, he returned to the building, let himself into his old room with a key, rifled Lock's pockets, and slugged Lock with an iron bar wrapped in newspapers when Lock resisted.

As Turpin fled he was pursued by a room clerk and a porter, who picked up bricks and threw them at him. Others joined in the chase and when Turpin ran into the Jefferson Hotel annex, now under construction, policemen attracted to the scene by the noise of the pursuit arrested him.

Walsh cut him off short.

"We'll hire a hall some night and discuss that subject," said the Senator.

Hays said that he had heard gossip about big contributors to both parties, but he did not propose to do any guess work.

He was asked whether anyone other than Sinclair had given more than $50,000 to the Republicans.

He replied that he did not keep the records, and did not care to repeat any hearsay. After a protestation by Hays that he wanted to give the committee all the information he could, Walsh remarked, disgustedly, "You haven't given up much yet."

For a long time he said his relations with Sinclair were intimate. All these matters Hays says had been developed at the time of his appearance before the committee in 1924, when an agent of the committee went to Sullivan and examined his papers.

Asked About Fund for Klan.
Hays was asked about a story that $100,000 went from the Republican campaign fund to Edward Y. Clarke, one of the principal officers of the Ku Klux Klan in 1920.

Hays said he did not "place" Clarke and did not know anything about the story.

"I have some sensitiveness against having unwarranted slurs put on that campaign," he complained.

"I have been reproached before," retorted Walsh, "for 'impugning' the characters of 'honorable' men."

It was developed that Hays was eager to get the Republican deficit clear up before the meeting of the Republican National Committee in Washington in December, 1923.

Committee members bore down hard on the inference that Hays' efforts to cover up the Sinclair loan and gifts through dummy contributions was due to his reluctance to tell the committee of the part played by Sinclair in clearing the deficit.

"How do you think it would have appeared to the committee if you had gone before them at the meeting Dec. 8, when a prima facie case of corruption in the leasing of Teapot Dome to Sinclair had been made out and told them that the committee was then obligated to Sinclair for $135,000?"

Walsh arrived at this figure by deducting from $155,000 the $20,000 returned by Mellon to Hays and by Hays to Sinclair.

Have said that of course could not tell what the committee would have thought about the probable state of mind of men.

BAYER

ASPIRIN

To break a cold harmlessly and in a hurry try a Bayer Aspirin tablet. And for headache. The action of Aspirin is very efficient, too, in cases of neuralgia, neuritis, even rheumatism and lumbago! And there's no after effect; doctors give Aspirin to children—often infants. Whenever there's pain, think of Aspirin. But get the real Bayer Aspirin; the genuine has Bayer on the box and on every tablet. All druggists, with proven directions.

REMOVING FILM EACH DAY does in a small way what your dentist does by cleaning teeth. This Anne Pomeroy is urged by her doctor to use Pepsident, the special film-removing dentifrice.

Film-Free Teeth Are White and Sparkling

FILM on teeth makes lovely teeth look dull, "off color." It causes many serious tooth and gum disorders, as science knows. (You must remove it. Dentists urge new way.

THIS offers you a simple scientific test—one judged a most remarkable dental test. It will produce a brilliance and whiteness in teeth you do not realize they have. It will improve your gums.

Run your tongue across your teeth, and you will feel a film... a viscous coat that covers them. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It absorbs discolorations and gives your teeth that cloudy, "off-color" look. Germs by the millions breed in it, and they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Tooth troubles and gum troubles now are largely traced to that film. Old-time methods fail in successfully combating it. That's why your teeth remain dull and unattractive.

Now, in a new-type dentifrice called

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

LIBERALS IN RIOT ON HUNGARIANS' ARRIVAL IN U. S.

Anti-Horthy Group Clashes
With Police When 480 Delegates Land for Kossuth Celebration.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 14.—Four hundred patrolmen posted almost shoulder to shoulder were on guard about City Hall Park today as an official delegation of the Hungarian Government was received by Mayor Walker.

The precautions were ordered after two minor clashes occurred between police and a large gathering of New York Hungarians opposed to the administration of Admiral Nicholas Horthy, regent of Hungary, when the visiting delegation of 480 landed from the Olympic last night for the unveiling tomorrow of a monument to Louis Kossuth, Hungarian patriot.

Patrolmen, mounted officers, detectives and members of the bomb squad mingled with the crowds in City Hall Park as the foreign visitors arrived from uptown hotels. There was no demonstration, however, the only indication of a hostile attitude of the crowd being the circulation of handbills accusing the Horthy regime of various outrages. The handbills were signed by the anti-Horthy League which is demanding the withdrawal of the visitors and the release of Baron Ludwig Hatvany, a Liberal Hungarian editor, now in prison in his own country.

The arrival of the delegation was accompanied by disorders in which police, with clubs, dispersed a large gathering. Several shots were fired, and a bomb scare arose when a newspaper photographer took a flash-light picture. As the official party started to land, with the welcoming delegation of city representatives and Hungarians, two columns of anti-Horthy marchers appeared with placards attacking "Hungarian Fascism," "The White Terror," and individual members of the delegation.

Some Attempt to Speak.
As the columns attempted to converge upon the pier the police charged. Some of the Liberals attempted to read prepared speeches against the "corrupt tyrants" who have "crushed Hungarian freedom and happiness under their heels." Printed pamphlets of similar tenor were distributed.

Justice Holmes Returns to Bench
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 14.—Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, after being absent from the sessions of the Supreme Court for two weeks, during which he celebrated his eighty-seventh birthday, returned to the bench yesterday fully recovered from a cold which kept him indoors. He seemingly was in good health and at once actively participated in the

EDUCATION BOARD TO SPEED

Construction and Repairs Will Create Jobs; Tornado Insurance Fund Arranged

The Board of Education last night decided to hasten the completion of its building program for the summer, to help reduce unemployment.

In addition to regular repair work on schools, it is planned to erect several new buildings. This fact was called to the attention of the board by President Weidel, who suggested that the board expedite its plan so that many now out of employment could be given jobs.

The board adopted a plan presented in the form of a resolution by John C. Tobin to provide a tornado insurance fund by putting aside $20,000 annually.

A year's leave of absence was granted to T. E. Spencer, principal of the vocational training school, for the stated purpose of permitting him to return to the teaching corps at the expiration of that time, without loss of status. If he becomes dissatisfied with the position of director of research and publicity, to which he was appointed at the last meeting of the board and accepted last night.

FOR $2,500,000 HOSPITAL FUND
A proposed bond issue of $2-500,000 to provide additional facilities to care for tubercular patients at Koch Hospital, city hospital and city hospital No. 2, is advocated in a resolution adopted last night at a meeting of the St. Louis Medical Society.

The resolution recommends that half of the proposed amount be used at Koch Hospital and the remainder be used equally between the two city hospitals. A half million dollars provided for Koch Hospital in the 1923 bond issue has been exhausted.

Radio News and Programs—New England Station Rebroadcasts British Programs 3 Days a Week

MUSIC FROM LONDON HEARD IN FALL RIVER

Crystal Set Owners "Listen In" on English Concerts in Latest Experiments.

Ready progress in rebroadcasting of programs originating in this country and in England is reported. Following the successful experiments of WGY, Schenectady, and WMAQ, Buffalo, N. Y., in rebroadcasting programs from British stations, WMAQ, Buffalo, N. Y., has just rebroadcast a number of programs from BSF, at Chelmsford, England.

On a number of days—in one case on six successive evenings—WMAQ rebroadcast programs sent on the 24-meter wave by BSF, and did it so well that owners of crystal sets in and around Fall River reported hearing the signals. One owner of a two-tube set stated that he received the BSF program with loud speaker volume.

Listeners reported to WMAQ that reception of the rebroadcast was as loud and distinct as any Fall River program.

Good quality, good volume as a rule and lack of static in the reception of the BSF short wave broadcasts, and, naturally, the same things in the rebroadcasting, as reported by WMAQ. Fading and unsteadiness of the signals from BSF have been the chief difficulties.

WMAQ has been picking up the London programs about 5:45 in the evening and rebroadcasting them until about 6:30 p. m. This means, of course, that it has been getting the late night dance programs in London. Music from the Carlton, Savoy and Ambassador hotels in London has been rebroadcast.

WMAQ has decided to try to rebroadcast British programs on a regular schedule—Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, from 5:45 to 6:30 p. m. Eastern standard time, or 4:45 to 5:30 Central time. The schedule, of course, is merely tentative.

Unfortunately, St. Louis listeners will hardly be able to listen in on this rebroadcasting, for WMAQ uses only 100 watts power and broadcasts on a wave length of 212 meters (1410 kilocycles). Owners of short wave receivers, however, may tune in the programs from BSF which uses the 24-meter wave length.

Station BSF was the station with which WGY exchanged telephone talk. It has figured in the plans for the mutual rebroadcasting of American and British programs. The short wave transmitter is reckoned as of "super power," and was built for broadcasting from London to all the Dominions.

LA GIOCONDA SCHEDULED AS KSD OPERA TONIGHT
Ponchielli's famous opera, "La Gioconda," is scheduled to be rebroadcast over KSD at 9:30 tonight by the National Grand Opera Company of WEAF. As usual, the performance will be in a tabloid edition, and will be directed by Cesare Sodero.

Ponchielli, who rather than Verdi is regarded by many as the master of modern Italian opera instrumentation, was born in Cremona in 1834 and died in Milan in 1896. The opera "La Gioconda," which is in four acts, on a libretto by Arrigo Boito, after Victor Hugo's play "Angelo, Tyrant of Padua," was first produced at Milan in 1876. Its first New York performance took place in 1883 and at the Metropolitan in 1904.

The locale of the opera is Venice in the sixteenth century. Its chief characters are La Gioconda, a ballad singer; Enzo Grimaldi, Prince of Santa Fior, who is under the ban of the Venetian authorities and, so, is in the city disguised as a sea captain; Laura, wife of the latter, one of the heads of the State Inquisition; Barnaba, a spy for the Inquisition; and La Cieca, mother of La Gioconda. The loves of La Gioconda and Laura for Enzo and the jealous fury of Barnaba, inspired by La Gioconda's rejection of his love, are the motifs of one of the most tragic of tragic operas.

There is much beautiful music in "La Gioconda," including the famous "Gloia a Mar" aria for the tenor, the exquisite aria, "Voce di Donna di Angelo," the aria, "Ah, prestatore, affondato" for baritone, and the splendid "Sulido" air.

The duet between Laura and La Gioconda, "L'amo come il Fulgor del Creato" ("I Adore Him as the Light of Creation") is perhaps the most dramatic number of the opera.

Among the best known music in all opera is that for the "Dance of the Hours" in "La Gioconda," because of the many times it has been played in broadcast concerts.

The Route of Radio Waves. Radio waves during the daylight hours are said by experts to travel close to the ground and in so doing reflect along the surface of the earth such as trees, buildings and wires, help to absorb energy from the passing waves. But at night the waves fly high and are believed to spread along a reflecting layer in the sky, 60 miles above the earth's surface. Up there at night the rays of the sun are absent, so the broadcasts cover much greater distances in their lofty realms of darkness, because absorption is minimized.

SAM 'N' HENRY ON ST. LOUIS STATION TWICE ON FRIDAY

Radiograms. American radio fans spent a half billion dollars for receiving equipment in 1934.

"Please hold the wave!" is now used by an announcer at WTAM, Cleveland, O., in place of "Please stand by."

The Russian soviet and labor unions are the largest users of radio in the world outside of North America. The number of receiving sets in use in Russia now exceeds 200,000. Forty-seven radio stations now broadcast daily programs in the soviet union, and at least 12 more are now in course of construction. There is a broadcasting station in every large city. Moscow has four, Leningrad, two; Kharkov, capital of the Ukraine, has two.

Star Is Able to Score but 255 and Now Trails by 45 Points in Title Contest.

By Charles Eichenbaum.

The Washington U. basketball team defeated St. Louis U. 22 to 21
last night in the Bear field house in the deciding contest of the three-game series between the two schools. Nearly 5000 persons witnessed 40 minutes of close struggling, with neither quarter able to offer a convincing show of superiority. Capt. Lorraine Eckert, Washington's star guard, sent the Bears into the lead several minutes before the close with a brace of long shots, and the Washington combination retained the advantage.

Eckert, playing his last varsity game for the Bears, led the Washington five in the second period to overcome the one-point margin which the Blue and White five held at the half. The score for the first period was 16 to 15 in favor of the Billikens, with Ham Strong, forward, contributing eight of the 16 markers. At the start of the closing period, Eckert's free throw evened the score and Meyer's tip-in for a field goal sent the Bears ahead.

Billikens Put on Spurt.

A rally by the Billikens caught the Bear quintet off guard and announced the score to 24 to 13, the biggest advantage held at any time of the game by either team. With the score against them, Wentze, Kurz and Eckert began their long-range gunning and established a Bear margin again. A free throw by Meyer and a field goal by Stanford.
Bear substitute, gave the Bears the necessary final punch and the point margin over the Billikens total.

Ham Strong, St. Louis U. forward, tossed two long baskets near the close of the game which brought the St. Louis U. fans to their feet with promise of victory.
Strong was high-point man of the game, scoring 15 of the Billikens' 31 points. Eckert, Washington's star guard, was next with 11 points scoring from his position as guard. Both led their quintets' attack, and it was the basket work of these two players which in the main caused the lead to shift 11 times during play.

Even on Field Goals.

Both quintets scored an equal number of field goals, 13 each. The Bears counted on six of their 14
free throws, while the Billikens counted five and missed seven tries. Each team made nine personal fouls. The Washington coach, Don White, used two replacements, Rip-tor for Wentze and Stanford for Lohrding, and Reget was forced to send in Fitzgerald for Drury at the close of the game when the lanky pivot man was ruled out on fouls.

Eckert, Bear captain, will be the only player lost to the Washington through graduation. Through the season, this shiftiness cost him who won an All-Star berth in Missouri Valley Conference play, has led the Washington quintet on offense as well as defense, and his loss will be felt.

DEFEAT BY RISKO PROVED

BOSTON GOB NOW
DEFINITELY OUT
AS TITLE THREAT

Cleveland Baker-Boy and Heeney, However, Are Not Considered Real Championship Candidates

By Alan J. Gould.

Associated Press Sports Editor.
NEW YORK, March 14.—If it accomplished nothing else, the victory of Johnny Risko, the big, rough and tumble man, over Jack Dempsey has settled the question of pure points to the satisfaction of most of the eagle-eyed experts: (1) That Sharkey no longer can "take it," lending color to the long-persistent view that the Boston sailor can be put down as another victim of Jack Dempsey's vicious body-punching; and (2) that if there has been any undercurrent scheme to boost Sharkey into a heavyweight championship match with Gene Tunney, it has fallen completely to pieces.

Few facts points have been more vigorously debated than these two over the past three years. There were those who insisted Sharkey should have been given the decision over Dempsey on a foul, while others wagged a knowing head and proclaimed that the Boston sailor was a "cinch" to meet Tunney, eliminations to the contrary notwithstanding.

Can Be Torn Up Now.
Both groups of "wise ones" now seem, like Sharkey, to have taken it on the chin. At the moment nothing appears more conclusive than that Sharkey is thoroughly and indisputably eliminated. He has had two big chances to establish himself as a contender and muffed both.

The impression, however, could not be downed prior to the brawl that Sharkey was the fair-haired boy, backed by interests certain of pushing him into a match with Tunney. The idea has persisted since last summer that Sharkey, after losing to Dempsey on a knockout, was assured he would get the "big shot" in 1928, under some negotiations earlier this winter supported this view. There was Jimmy Johnston and his supposedly influential 10 per cent interest in the Boston sailor. Contracts, in fact, were signed with a view to a title match between Sharkey and Tunney but they can now be torn up and tossed into the wastebasket, if the verdict of a few experts is accepted. It probably will be.

Lacking though they may be in some of the colorful requisites of a championship challenger, Johnny Risko and Tom Heeney now stand unquestionably at the top of the elimination heap. Unless Jack Dempsey yields to Tex Rickard's persuasion and changes his mind about a come-back Risko and Heeney demand first consideration.

These two pluggers of the elimination group have outlasted more colorful but also more erratic rivals. Heeney holds a decision over Risko but Johnny has beaten Paulino, the latest defeated "Honest Tom," as well as Sharkey, who held the New Zealand title to a draw. There isn't much to choose between them. Both are shock-absorbing type, everlastingly aggressive and difficult to beat. Neither stands out as a real threat to Tunney's crown.

On the other hand it would be extremely difficult for gentleman Gene to put either Tom or Johnny on the floor. But the net results show up, using the hockey system of scoring two points for a victory and one for a draw.

A Matchless Motor Car
Investment

The new La Salle five-passenger family sedan, at $2350, means vastly more than just a motor car. It means long years of that supreme motoring luxury which the whole world has learned to associate with only a Cadillac-built car. It brings to its possessor the distinction of that vogue which La Salle created—that vogue which will be the symbol of good taste in motoring long after the transient enthusiasm for cars designed merely to look like La Salle has waned. For, as everybody knows, the slightest vestige of resemblance vanishes in the light of the surpassingly brilliant performance of La Salle's famous V-type, 90-degree, 8-cylinder, Cadillac-built engine.

Five new models. Substantially lower prices on the entire La Salle line. Only a small initial outlay is required under the liberal General Motors convenient payment plan.

Little Girl, 10, Eats So Much Mother Amazed

"My 10-year-old daughter had no appetite. Then we gave her Vinol, and now she eats so much we are surprised."—Mrs. W. Josten.

Vinol is a delicious compound of cod liver peptone, iron, etc. The very FIRST bottle often adds several pounds weight to thin children or adults. Nervous, easily tired, anemic people are surprised how Vinol gives new pep, sound sleep and a BIG appetite. Tastes delicious. Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores.

Details of Game Broadcast
Last Night Over the Radio Chain.

THE Radio Bridge season ended with the game broadcast last night from Station KSLD. Judging from the comments received at the studio, it left the radio audience with a desire for the continuation of the series next fall.

Participating in the game with Mr. Work and Mr. Whitehead were Mrs. Guy U. Purdy of Omaha, Neb., whose fame extends into many states as a result of her classes in many parts of this country and Canada; and Mr. W. E. Byrnes of New York, former president of the American Whist League.

Mrs. Purdy, the Dealer, South, opened the game with a pre-emptive bid of four Hearts on Spades, 6, 4; Hearts, A, K, Q, 10, 7, 6, 4, 2; Diamonds, 6; Clubs, 6, 2. Mr. Whitehead, west, was in an awkward predicament. With this holding: Spades, K, J, 7, 2; Hearts, none; Diamonds, K, Q, 10, 7; Clubs, A, K, 9, 8, 4 — he would have liked to double infamously for his partner's best bid. But unfortunately a double of a bid of four is a business double, and Mr. Whitehead was not at all sure he could defeat four Hearts all on what undoubtedly was a freak hand. An original bid of four indicates ordinarily a practically solid suit of at least eight cards with but little or no side support; and bidding from Mr. Whitehead's own holding, Mrs. Purdy might hold as many as 10 Hearts in sequence, with a sure game.

On the other hand, Mr. Whitehead reasoned that his own high cards should produce game if played with his partner's best suit as trump, unless his partner held a worthless hand. In that case game at Hearts would be probable for the opponents, and any loss that Mr. Whitehead might sustain, should he make a bid and be defeated, would be largely offset by the game saved.

Mr. Whitehead accordingly determined to bid his hand defensively. His plan contemplated the naming of his Spade suit first, which would require a bid of four. Should the opponents bid five Hearts, Mr. Whitehead intended to double for business. Should his bid of four Spades be doubled, Mr. Whitehead would then bid five Clubs before showing his Diamonds. Any double of this or other bids must come from North, as South with her holding could not possibly have any reason for doubling an adverse bid. Following North's double of five Clubs, if made, Mr. Whitehead's partner, East, could show his preference for Spades without increase of contact, and should be expected to prefer, Mr. Whitehead would be prepared to play the hand at five Spades doubled. But should East pass the doubled bid, Mr. Whitehead would bid five Diamonds, which would become the final bid unless his partner, with much better support for Clubs, should bid six of that suit. Whatever might be the development, Mr. Whitehead was prepared for it, and thus anticipated no serious loss. Therefore he bid four Spades.

Mr. Work, North, with a sure trick in Diamonds and possible tricks both in Spades and in Clubs, bid five Hearts.

Mr. Byrnes, East, on the strength of his four Spades, including the Ace, raised his partner's Spade bid to five.

Mrs. Purdy passed, as she already had bid the full strength of her hand. Mr. Whitehead also passed, as the bidding had developed in such manner as to make it unnecessary for him to carry out his contemplated program. Mr. Work passed. He was tempted to double, but did not because it might help Declarer to place the Queen of trumps. Thus Mr. Whitehead won the bid for five Spades.

Mr. Work opened the play by leading the Jack of Hearts, the higher of his two cards of his partner's suit. Mr. Byrnes spread his hand for Dummy, and Declarer played from it the 3 of Hearts. Mrs. Purdy covered with the Queen of Hearts with the intention of leading her singleton Diamond should the trick hold. Declarer trumped with the 2 of Spades.

Mr. Whitehead then studied the hand to determine his best plan of play. He saw that if he could hold his losses to one Club and one Diamond he could make his bid. Considering the trump situation, Mr. Whitehead assumed that the Queen was held by North. If the adverse trumps were split normally, 3-2, the Queen would be but twice guarded and a single finesse through it would result eventually in its capture, thus preventing the loss of a trick in trumps. One of Mr. Whitehead's trumps, therefore, had to be used for finessing, and his King had to be used to take one round of trumps. That would leave him only one trump with which to ruff Hearts in addition to the one already used for that purpose. One of Dummy's two remaining Hearts must therefore be discarded to prevent the loss of a Heart trick. Dummy also had to discard a Diamond, or a second Diamond trick would be lost.

However, Mr. Whitehead saw that if he could establish his Club suit in three rounds, the two vital discards from Dummy could be made on the two Club tricks thus established. Mr. Whitehead therefore concluded that the making of his contract was dependent upon

Sports Attire Enters Every Fashion Realm

CONSPICUOUS in the realm of sports attire now taking into itself every fashion variety available, are the trio of suit, jacket dress and sweater costume. Decoration relieves any possible monotony and may go so far as to be flamboyant in its colorfulness. The newest note, however, is the architectural influence, or the modernistic design. The skyscraper idea has spread to so many fields, even into the designs of fashion, that it has at last encompassed sports garb.

This feeling is clearly demonstrated in the sweater frock sketched. The sweater, by the way, is in one of the new lay stitches and has bands of silk applied decoratively in a built-up manner suggesting the receding stories of a skyscraper. This design also is used to trim the pockets and is repeated at neck and sleeves. The skirt of flat crepe, pleated, of course, exactly matches the color of the knitted blouse. A sleeveless dress with its accompanying jacket, or cape, is a significant style and one that is practical in the extreme. Usually the dress is one-piece, suitable for active sports. With the addition of the wrap it becomes a costume of more formality. This costume shown has a dress of white flat crepe and a short jacket of printed silk with a shoe string belt, a new note.

A lined striped fabric of wool makes this suit with its matching silk blouse. Scalloped edges on jacket and skirt are rather novel, while gold buttons and buckle, and pin in leaf design are interesting touches.

Shrimps a la Newburg
Take one pint of shrimps, three tablespoonsful of butter, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a little cayenne pepper, one teaspoonful of lemon juice, one teaspoonful of flour, one-half cup of cream, the yolks of two eggs and two tablespoonsful of sherry. Clean the shrimp and cook three minutes in two tablespoonsful of the butter. Add the salt, cayenne pepper and lemon juice and cook for one minute. Then remove shrimps and put remaining butter in chafing dish. Add flour and cream. When thickened, add egg yolks slightly beaten, shrimps and sherry. Serve on hot toast.

the normal 3-2 split both of trumps and of Clubs, assuming the Queen of trumps to be held by North. If either suit were not so split, the contract would be set. Accordingly, as the only way to make his contract, Mr. Whitehead proceeded on the assumption of normal splits, even though all chances were against them.

His plans perfected, Mr. Whitehead led the 4 of Clubs, to take his inevitable loss of a Club trick at once and facilitate the establishment of the suit, while at the same time concealing his Club strength. Mr. Work played the Jack; Dummy the 3; Mrs. Purdy the 2.

Mr. Work led the 9 of Hearts, to force the Declarer again. Dummy played the 5; Mrs. Purdy the King; Mr. Whitehead trumped with the Jack of Spades, not with a low Spade, in order that the Ace-10 in Dummy might be placed in tenace position over the Queen he assumed to be in Mr. Work's hand.

Mr. Whitehead led the King of Spades; Mr. Work played the 8; Dummy the 2; Mrs. Purdy the 4. Mr. Whitehead continued with the 7 of Spades; Mr. Work played the 9; Dummy finessed the 10; and Mrs. Purdy played the 6. Dummy discarded the Ace of Spades; Mrs. Purdy discarded the 2 of Hearts; Declarer trumped with the 2 of Spades.

Mr. Whitehead then studied the hand to determine his best plan of play. He saw that if he could hold his losses to one Club and one Diamond he could make his bid. Considering the trump situation, Mr. Whitehead assumed that the Queen was held by North. If the adverse trumps were split normally, 3-2, the Queen would be but twice guarded and a single finesse through it would result eventually in its capture, thus preventing the loss of a trick in trumps. SPRING SUGGESTIONS For the AMATEUR GARDENER

LOOK OUT FOR MR. MOUSE.

A MOUSE can do much damage in a pot or flat of seed in one night, so the pot or box should be covered with a sheet of glass or a board. After the seed has germinated and are growing there is seldom any danger from mice. While on the subject of losing seed by other means than the damping-off disease it might be well to warn against the cunning antics of ants if they are in the neighborhood of a box of seeds.

Ants will carry away any seed that is not too large for them to handle. They prefer seed just as they are germinating, but will also carry away newly sown seed. As they are wont to lick anything, be it insect or seed, that exudes a sweet substance, they supposedly carry the seed to their nests. It is very disheartening to discover that the fine seed that was so painstakingly sown the previous day has been and is being carried away by an army of ants.

They will sometimes appear when least expected. If they are in the neighborhood of a box of seed it is well to place a water barrier between them and the seed box. One or more saucers of water in which empty pots are inverted and on which the box of seed is set will prevent them from causing any trouble. If only a pot of seed is to be protected it may be stood on a half brick in a saucer or pan of water. If many pots or boxes are used they may be set on a platform supported by standing four bricks in water.

Diamonds: Mr. Work played the Jack; Dummy trumped with the 5 of Spades, and Mrs. Purdy discarded the Ace of Hearts. The adversaries therefore took but two tricks, and Declarer made his contract of five Spades. He scored 45 points for tricks and 40 for four honors divided.

Declarer then led the King of Diamonds; Mr. Work played the Ace; Dummy the 3; Mrs. Purdy the 5, Mr. Work was obliged to return a Diamond. He led the 9; Dummy played the 4; Mrs. Purdy discarded the 10 of Hearts; Declarer won with the 10 of Diamonds. Declarer led the Queen of

ETIQUETTE

By Kathrine de Peyster.

CAN you suggest something in the way of entertainment that hasn't been done over and over again? I am a newcomer in a very attractive small city where my husband has recently been appointed to a most important executive position. I have been very hospitably entertained by everybody, but exactly the same sort of thing has been done for me. I want to return the courtesy of the members of the board and their wives, but I want to give something that no one here has attempted before. I am sure that you can help me.

AMBITIOUS.
How about serving a real breakfast? On Sunday morning about 11 o'clock? This is a delightful meal and one well understood abroad. Sunday is a day of rest and recreation. It is the morning church service, but they shall all be free to follow their inclinations, religious or otherwise, in the early afternoon.

Have flowers or a "winter bouquet" in the middle of a bare table. Have attractive but not too ornate dillies at each cover and the appropriate silver. Serve oranges or grapefruit, most carefully peeled and separated and artistically arranged on finely crushed ice. Have broiled chicken with creamed or French fried potatoes, or broiled ham with country sausages, followed by griddle cakes and maple syrup or golden honey. Have delicious coffee, made any way that will best bring out good flavor, with a great abundance of hot milk and heavy cream. Have corn bread, or muffins, or soda biscuits and buttered toast, both brown and white. Have marmalade and some sweet jam on the table. Some people like unsalted butter, but I would have dishes of both salted and unsalted. Have it attractively made into delicate shells and served on crushed ice.

I believe that a carefully carried out dinner of this kind, because of service and attention to details with which it is managed abroad, you would really create a sensation in your new home town and soon have many imitators.

The other day I read in your column that bread and butter plates measure 10 inches. I wish to state that they measure only 6 or 6½ inches. The entire set of fish or salad plates measure 8½ to 9½ inches.

I too hung my head in sorrow over that typographical error! Apparently the 6 got curled into a 10 in some mysterious way. In the mind of the typesetter, I suspect, I beg humble pardon. Naturally the bread and butter plate, accompanying the dinner plate, could not be as large as the dinner plate itself. Will you give the typesetter and I another chance?

Science Finds Reducer For Over-Fat People

By Dr. Theodore Beck

Scientific minds have delved into the secrets of the ductless glands of the human body, and some are so bold as to claim that with the further study of this subject man or woman can be thin or fat, ugly or beautiful, dull or brilliant, old or youthful, etc. One outstanding fact is that obesity (over-fatness) can often be controlled when we know that one of the important glands of the body is causing the abnormal fleshiness. Impaired secretions of the thyroid gland does cause many to become quickly fat. By supplying this element, aiding the gland of nature as it were, many pounds of superfluous fat can be banished.

I confidently recommend five grain Arbolone tablets as a home remedy (non-secret as to ingredients) to those men and women who wish to reduce successfully. I print by permission some of the letters I regularly receive from those who rejoice when free from the embarrassing, annoying condition.

If directions are followed there are no harmful results from the use of Arbolone. The formula on the package may be submitted to your own physician.

Reduced 10 Pounds in Two Weeks

Dear Sir: "I have followed directions, and lost 10 pounds in two weeks, thanks to Arbolone tablets. Please send me your Health and Beauty Book." (Signed) Mrs. Geo. H. —, St. Clair St., Cleveland, Ohio.

Did Not Gain After Reducing

"Most of all, I thank you for the benefit I have received from the use of Arbolone Tablets. I reduced from 138 to 125 pounds. Then I quit taking them for two weeks to see if I would regain. I did not gain an ounce. Am taking them again to reduce to 115 pounds." (Signed) Mrs. W. L. S. —, St. Joseph, Mo.

Now Has Better Health

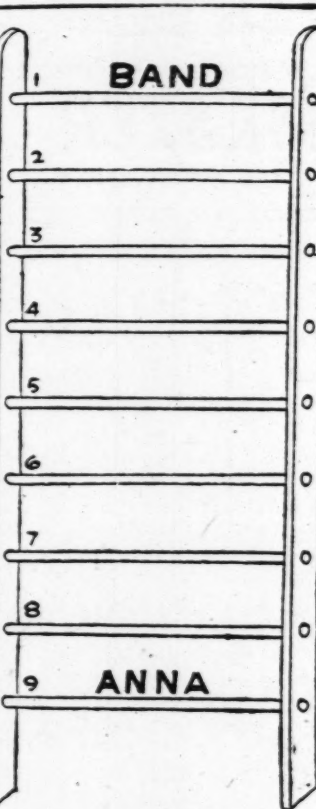

"It is with great pleasure that I tell you of the benefit derived from Arbolone. I am reduced to the desired weight as well as enjoying better health. Very truly yours, Mrs. H. F. —, El Dorado, Ark."

Lost 35 Pounds—New Way

DETROIT, MICH., Mrs. T. H. —, Dix Ave., writes: "I'm more than pleased with Arbolone Tablets. I have taken other medicine, but never had any good results. I weighed 130 when I started to take Arbolone Tablets. I am down to 100 and expect to lose more. The tablets do not harm me in any way. Etc."

Prune Tapioca.

Heat two cupsful of prune juice until it comes to a boil. Then stir in two tablespoonsful of instantaneous tapioca and boil five minutes. Add one-half teaspoonful salt and two-thirds cupful of stewed and stoned prunes and cook until the mixture is clear. Remove from the fire and beat in one tablespoonful of lemon juice and the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs. Four into sherbet glasses and chill. Serve either topped with whipped cream or make a custard sauce out of the yolks of the three eggs.

A tart jelly added to the gravy when reheating slices of cold lamb is very tasty.

THE PARIS MODE TODAY

As Seen at the Openings and at the Races.
Special cable by Pierre Le Baur, director of the Paris Fashion Board, and E. Winifred Boulter, associate director.

PARIS, March 13.
CHERUIT's beautiful collection is one of great originality and essentially Parisian. Madame Wormser pays no attention to what other people are doing, but she is always extremely up-to-date and her gowns show many new ideas. While some houses are concentrating fullness at the back, Madame Wormser places it in front and at the sides, retaining the flat back that has such practical qualities.

Some of the skirts are so short as to show the knees in front, but many of them are finished with scarves around the waist, which makes the ground at the back.

A very original dinner gown of white has a short sleeveless satin jacket with a flap in front to give it a bolero effect and narrow belt at the back like a man's waistcoat. It is worn with an Eton collar and little bow tie. The full petal paneled skirt is of cire chiffon.

Another in black taffeta with a high-cut sleeveless corse and red geraniums on the shoulder has the full skirt edged with black lace. The front is made with an apron effect which is enhanced by its being tied round the waist with strings in a bow at the back.

Les Etolles d'Or is the name of an exquisite model in black tulle, made with a long slim corse and skirt of uneven hemline with points that touch the ground at the back.

Madame Wormser shows delightful sports frocks made with clever incrustations of crepe de chine on jersey, or worked in jersey of two or three shades of the same color. She retains her affection for velvet cloth and uses it in pale moss green for a charming coat of staid stole ends stitched down behind the sleeves to give a semi-cape effect.

The Cheruit gowns are intricate and handsome. They are sufficiently voluminous to form adequate evening cloaks for the summer. Gold lame lined with flame color, silver lame with pink satin and fringe are some of the fabrics used in their fashioning, and they are made with a cape movement and long ends cut in forms, drapings, and definite grace.

Jenny uses a great deal of jersey with an under-thread of gold or silver for the sports ensembles in her collection. She has many original touches. One of them is the introduction of a high stiff white collar under the draped neck of a dress. This appears in many models. Coats, too, are made with little upright collars, though many of them are finished with scarves. The asymmetrical necktie makes its appearance in this collection.

Jenny's sleeves are amusing. Some of them have a puff halfway between elbow and wrist that goes between the line of an inverted bell-of-mutton sleeve.

She drapes the fullness of her skirts to the side on to the back and shows many hints of an 18th-century line, though she combines it with tightness round the hips.

A series of navy blue ensembles is made with short bolero jackets over white blouses onto which the skirt is applied in points. Some of the jackets are sleeveless in which case the white blouse is made with navy blue sleeves.

The house of Jenny is famous for the beauty and richness of its evening wraps. One shown this season is of coppery moire and with gold and embroidered with gold sequins. It has a long pointed collar reaching to the hips and of dark brown fur finished with a tassel.

The opening Sunday race meeting at Auteuil showed that women are already adopting the trimming of white fur that is so popular in some of the new collections. A black cloth coat had a long stole border and cuffs of white fur which was most effective with one of the new Agnes flower topes also in white, with a Canada tuck over one ear.

THE seven years I have found that the woman plays a greater part in aviation than anyone suspects," she says. "In teaching and following aviation as closely as I can, I find that the man who is a pilot or a mechanic is his main object is the fellow who remains on the ground. A woman pilot can do more things to change this attitude than anyone else. Show her that she is capable of doing the same thing that a man can do and you have sold that thing to the feminine sex."

Miss Ruth Nichols of Rye, N. Y., the other woman holding a transport license, is also the only woman holding an International Hydro-Aero license. A member of Wellesley College and from a prominent Rye family, Miss Nichols has the distinction also of being the first woman executive in a first-line aircraft company in the country. She has flown in several parties of the world, and recently made a nonstop flight from Rye to Florida. She is director of general aviation promotion and sales representative of an airplane manufacturing corporation.

Miss Martha Helen Croninger, Fort Thomas, Ky., says she talked aviation so much that she compelled her family to give up their mechanical careers at a Cincinnati flying school. She still is in training, but she has had about 20 hours in the air. She made her first solo flight after 9½ hours of dual instruction. She intends to play a part in commercial work when she finishes training.

"I THINK women will be as good as flying men," she says. "The majority of them are not fitter for such work, just as the majority of them are not excellent automobile drivers. But there are certain girls who have a mechanical sense that makes them as competent as men in driving automobiles or flying planes. Some day we will have plenty of commercial aviators."

THE PARIS MODE TODAY

As Seen at the Openings and at the Races.
Special cable by Pierre Le Baux, director of the Paris Fashion Board, and E. Walford Boulter, associate director.

PARIS, March 13. HERUIT's beautiful collection is one of great originality and essentially Parisian. Madame Wormser pays no attention to what other people are doing, but she is always extremely up-to-date and her gowns show many new ideas. While some houses are concentrating fullness at the back, Madame Wormser places it in front and at the sides, retaining the flat back that has such practical qualities. Some of the skirts are so short as to show the knees in front, but many of them almost touch the ground at the back.

A very original dinner gown of white has a short sleeveless satin jacket with a flap in front to give it a bolero effect and narrow belt at the back like a man's waistcoat. It is worn with an Eton collar and little bow tie. The full petal paneled skirt is of fine chiffon.

Another in black tulle with a high-cut sleeveless corseage and red geraniums on the shoulder has the full skirt edged with black lace. The front is made with an apron effect which is enhanced by its being tied round the waist with strings in a bow at the back.

Les Broiles d'Or is the name of an exquisite model in black tulle made with a long slim corseage and skirt of uneven hemline with points that touch the ground at the back. Madame Wormser shows delightful sports frocks made with clever incrustations of crepe de chine on jersey, or worked in jersey of two or three shades of the same color.

She retains her affection for velvet cloth and uses it in pale moss green for a charming coat with stole ends stitched down behind the sleeves to give a semi-cape effect. The Cheruit scarves are intricate and handsome. They are sufficiently voluminous to form adequate evening cloaks for the summer. Gold lame lined with flame color, silver lame with pink satin and fringe are some of the fabrics tucked over one ear.

NINE WOMEN HAVE WON THE RIGHT TO PILOT PLANES WITH U. S. APPROVAL

Scores of Others Are Making Parachute Leaps, Doing Wing Aerobatics and Joy-Riding Up and Down the Skies.

THE absolute girl, mounted daintily on a bicycle built for two, of a dress. This appears in many models. Coats, too, are made with little upright collars, though many of them are finished with scarves. The asymmetrical neckline also makes its appearance in this collection.

Jenny uses a great deal of jersey with an under-thread of gold or silver for the sports ensembles in her collection. She has many original touches. One of them is the introduction of a high stiff white collar under the draped scarf of a dress. This appears in many models. Coats, too, are made with little upright collars, though many of them are finished with scarves. The asymmetrical neckline also makes its appearance in this collection.

Jenny's sleeves are amusing. Some of them have a puff halfway between elbow and wrist that gives them the line of an inverted leg-of-mutton sleeve.

She drapes the fullness of her skirts to the side or to the back and shows many hints of an 1890 line, though she combines it with tightness round the hips.

A series of navy blue ensembles is made with short bolero jackets over white blouses on which the skirt is appliqued in points. Some of the jackets are sleeveless in which case the white blouse is made with navy blue sleeves.

The house of Jenny is famous for the beauty and richness of its evening wraps. One shown this season is of coppery moire shot with gold and embroidered with gold sequins. It has a long pointed collar reaching to the hips made of dark brown fur finished with a tassel.

The opening Sunday race meeting at Auteuil showed that women are already adopting the trimming of white fur that is so popular in some of the new collections. A black cloth coat had a long stole border and cuffs of white fur which was most effective with one of the new Agnes flower toques, also in white, with a camella tucked over one ear.

THE seven years I have been flying I have found that the woman plays a greater part in aviation than anyone expects," she says. "In teaching and following aviation as closely as I can, I find that the man whose mother, wife or sweetheart is his main object is the fellow who remains on the ground. A woman pilot can do more things to change this attitude than anyone else. Show to the women that they are capable and do the same thing that a man can do, and you have that thing—the feminine sex."

Miss Ruth Nichols of Rye, N. Y., the other woman holding a transport license, is also the only woman holding an international Hydroplane license. A member of the Junior League, a graduate of Wellesley College and from a prominent Rye family, Miss Nichols has the distinction also of being the first woman executive in a first-class aircraft company in the country. She has flown in several parts of the world, and recently made a nonstop flight from Rye to Florida. She is director of general aviation promotion and sales representative of an airplane manufacturing corporation.

Miss Martha Helen Croninger, Port Thomas, Ky., says she talked with her family to give her an advanced course at a Cincinnati flying school. She still is in training, but she has had about 20 hours in the air. She made her first solo flight after 9½ hours of instruction. She intends to get a place in commercial work when she finishes training.

THINK women will be as good flyers as men," she says. "The majority of them are not fitter for such work, just as the majority of men are not excellent automobile drivers. But there are certain girls who have that mechanical sense that makes them as competent as men in driving automobiles or flying planes. Some day we will have plenty of commercial aviators."

The other women licensed pilots are: Ruth Elder, who failed in a trans-Atlantic hop; Miss Geraldine Grey, Buffalo, N. Y., who hopes to fly across the Atlantic; Katherine Schuyler Van Vechten, Colorado Springs, Colo., society girl; Marie C. Stinson, Washington; Mrs. Frank H. Fredeman, Little Rock, Ark., and Viola Gentry, Martinsville, Va.

Women students on the department's rolls are: Elizabeth Wilcox Ayer, Oakland, Calif.; Nan O. Durham, Chicago, Ill.; Marian Green, St. Louis, Mo.; Dorothy Miller, Milwaukee; Louise McPherson, San Francisco; Florence English Madcock, Titusville, N. J.; Mabel L. Meade, Portland, Ore.; Ruth Mohr, Atlanta, Ga.; Leonida Eleanor Purnas, Aurora, Ill.; Mable E. Shulhammer, Madison, Wis.; Peggy M. Tackler, Chicago, and Elizabeth Noyes Warner, Washington.

The Old Felt Hat

Use it to resolve your bedroom slippers instead of discarding them when the old sole breaks through. It will make serviceable mats in middle shoes, also a good protection in your own.

The small pieces of felt that fall out can be cut into washers for slipping faucets.

You can get many discs for the bottom of chair legs to protect the polished floors.

Small strips of the felt pasted on backs of picture frames will save wear on wall paper.

It will make excellent insoles for the place under desks, glasses or flower holders as a protection to the table.

Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

GREAT EXCITEMENT IN THE OLD ORCHARD

The robin and the bluebird bring Assurance of approaching spring.—Old Mother Nature.

GENTLE Sister South Wind had swept away the snow from the Green Meadows and the Old Orchard. Jack Frost still came of nights, but he hurried away and hid every morning when jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun began his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky. Yes, sir, Jack Frost hid then and he remained hidden all day. He didn't come out again until after the Black Shadows had taken possession of the Green Meadows, the Old Orchard and the Green Forest.

So Peter Rabbit and all his friends of the winter knew that sweet Mistress Spring would soon arrive and their hearts were filled with happiness. They knew that she was coming up from the Sunny South and they knew that just ahead of her would be certain feathered messengers to bring them the news that she would soon arrive. So every morning Peter Rabbit spent a great deal of time just looking and listening. It was the same way with the other little people, especially the little people up in the Old Orchard. They would stop in the middle of something they happened to be doing to look and listen. Why were they looking and listening? They were looking and listening for the return of old friends who had been a long time away.

It was Peter Rabbit's long ears that first heard the sound that all had been listening for. Peter was up at the Old Orchard. He should have been at home in the dear Old Briar-patch, but these days he was so uneasy he couldn't stay in any one place long, certainly not in the dear Old Briar-patch. So on this particular morning, instead of returning home as he should have done, he decided to spend the day on the edge of the Old Orchard. He felt that it was perfectly safe there because, you know, he has some wonderful holes underneath the old stone wall. So it was that Peter was sitting with his long ears pointed straight up at the blue, blue sky as he listened to the chitter-chatter of Tommy Tit the Chickadee, Sammy Jay, Doty the Tree Sparrow, Slaty the Junco, Speckles the Starling, Happy Jack Squirrel, Chatter the Red Squirrel and Striped Chipmunk. Suddenly those long ears of his caught the faintest, softest, sweetest of whistles. A queer little tingling feeling went all over Peter. He felt his very best to shut out all the other sounds and strained his ears for that whistle again. There it was! It was a little clearer this time. But just where it came from Peter couldn't tell for the life of him. It came from nowhere in particular. It sounded as if it might come from a place quite near and it sounded as if it might come from a place far away.

Peter thumped. Everybody stopped talking to see what Peter was thumping for. "Listen!" Peter cried. "Listen!" Everybody listened. They listened and they listened, and there was great expectancy on all their faces. But they listened in vain. "Pooh!" exclaimed Sammy Jay. "Peter imagines he's hearing things. He's"

Sammy didn't finish. Everybody heard it that time. Instantly there was great excitement all through the Old Orchard. Yes, sir, there was great excitement. "Listen!" cried all together. "Win some Bluebird has come. That means that sweet,

To Whiten Dark Skin

4 or 5 Shades

Utterly Without Using Harmful Bleach

By MARIE DAVANT

You apply it like this with a cold cream. Acts instantly to lighten and clarify the skin.

Golden Peacock Bleach Creme

There is now a new way of whitening the skin. Of clearing darkness, freckles, blotches away. A way that experts are advising, and women by the thousands adopting. In many cases it acts almost overnight; yet contains none of the irritating elements common to old-time "bleaches." A safe way, at last, to bleach the skin to ivory clearness. You apply it tonight, just like cold cream. Tomorrow noticeable results are seen. In a few days your skin is marvelously white and clear. Imperfections gone, soft as a child's; wrinkles and blackheads have disappeared. It is called Golden Peacock Bleach Creme... the discovery of a world-famed laboratory devoted exclusively to skin whitening research. Some 80 eminent doctors, scientists and skin specialists worked in its development. 10 years were spent perfecting it. Over 1,000 formulae were tried and discarded before the right one was found.

Thus it marks a new era in modern beauty culture. And supplants entirely old-time methods. Its bleaching agent is one of the most potent healing agents known. One that virtually every doctor uses. Old-time bleaches depended too often for their results on irritant elements.

It makes a dark skin as needless folly for any woman to suffer—even for another day. Some 500,000 women now employ it. It is sold at all drug and department stores. And results unqualifiedly guaranteed, or money returned.

THE PERFECT FAMILY FOUND

By Hannah Wing

JUST have met the Perfect American Family.

Oh, I don't blame you for doubting! For saying there isn't any such thing! Not in this day of the hue and cry about the disappearance of the home and the flapper mother and son and daughter living their own lives and a sort of armed neutrality between parents and children.

But this family is a fact; I know, because I spent a delightful afternoon with them. There were other guests, and I don't mind admitting that I thought them too good to be true at first; I thought they were parading their company manners.

Then I saw my mistake. It began to dawn on me when the girl—and what a girl!—was invited to spend some weeks at the home of one of the women present.

The brother spoke up quickly: "You'll have to stay other ones—about that. You see, we couldn't get along without Anna Louise several weeks."

The girl, whose face was like a flower with sunshine on it, flashed him a smile and he smiled back. Real affection there; none of the grinding antagonism that exists so often between the boys and girls of one family.

And the pride these youngsters took in their father and his work! And the sweet, gentle interest in their beautiful mother!

I studied them all afternoon, trying to figure out the secret of that exquisite family spirit. It not only was that they loved each other but there was something beyond; something that held them in a double unity.

Then I decided it to be this: Each of them loved every other one—and each was perfectly sure of the other's love! Not only affection, you see, but complete faith.

And it occurred to me that no love can be fine and high without faith. Nothing can be perfect without all the elements of perfection.

And this Perfect Family, it seemed to me, had the final and most important element—next to love—that goes to make up ideal family life—faith in itself and each of its members.

Says Schools Should Stress Moral Training

WELL-ROUNDED education of the child demands the development not only of the intellect but of the will and of the emotions. Impulses and desires, said Dr. Jeremiah E. Burke, Superintendent of Schools of Boston, in an address at Boston.

"By this I mean that we should teach the great cardinal virtues as a touchstone to which all the child's thoughts and all his actions may be subjected," he said at the Department of Superintendence convention of the National Education Association. "Controlled by these influences the private life of the individual will be safeguarded and his conduct assured. The welfare of the child and the welfare of society equally demand the cultivation of these moral and spiritual virtues."

BUDY HAS ARRANGED FOR AN ATTORNEY FOR FLINT—LOOK HIM OVER.

YOU CAN'T TELL ME YOUR LEGAL REPRESENTATIVE? I'D HATE TO HAVE THE JURY GET THE OPINION YOUR GIVING ME.

IF YOU WERE AN ATTORNEY YOU WOULD FIND AN ALIBI FOR ANYTHING I DID—WHAT ARE YOU TRYING TO DO, CONVICT ME?

COUNSELOR, I'M NOT ASKING FOR ANYTHING THAT ISN'T FAIR—BUT I KNOW ATTORNEYS IN THE BIG TOWN THAT MAKE THE EVIDENCE FIT THE CASE—THEY WOULD PUT A SOB STORY AROUND MY CASE THAT WOULD MAKE THE JURY SHED TEARS IN SUCH PROFUSION THEY WOULD HAVE TO SWIM OUT OF THE JURY BOX.
